TWO SITES IN BARRY HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

New council houses will be the first for 17 years

THE Vale Council plans to build the first new council-owned housing in the county for 17 years.

A total of £3million has been budgeted for the building of new homes in 2016 and 2017.

Two sites in Barry have been identified.

Plans were agreed at a meeting of the council's cabinet on July 11 that could see construction soon under way on two developments of new homes for families who have children with disabilities in Barry.

Coun Bronwen Brooks, the cabinet member responsible for housing, said: "Building new council housing has long been an aspiration of this administration. Now, after a huge amount of work, I am delighted to say that we are in a position to deliver this.

"We know that the Vale needs more affordable housing and more homes for those living with a disability. This is what we will be providing as part of this scheme.

"These new developments will provide homes to those in very real need, who have in some cases been waiting for a long time. They will make a very real difference to the lives of our residents and I believe will mark a significant change in the way this council works to tackle housing issues in the Vale."

Plans for the new homes, to be built on land near to Holm View and Francis Road in Barry, are currently being finalised. It is expected that applications for planning permission will be submitted in the coming weeks.

A local information event has taken place at the Holm View Community Enterprise Centre and local residents will have a further opportunity to view the plans and share any comments before the final plans are submitted for consideration.

If planning permission is granted construction work at Francis Road could start on site as soon as September 2016.

YOUNG PARENTS ACHIEVE GOALS

Judge tells Barry man (21): 'This is your last chance'

A YOUNG man who dishonestly handled a stolen electric scooter following a burglary at an address in Barry told the police a "cock and bull story" concerning the crime, said a judge at Cardiff Crown Court.

Bradley McCann (21) had been convicted by magistrates of handling the stolen property and had been committed to the Crown Court for sentence.

McCann, formerly of Port Road, Barry, but who had recently moved to the Adamsdown area of Cardiff, was also in breach of a 16-month suspended sentence imposed for offences of burglary and theft.

Prosecutor Heath Edwards said McCann came into possession of a motor scooter worth £100 following a burglary in the Barry area. McCann posted it for sale on the internet for £40.

The owner saw the advertisement and contacted the police, who interviewed McCann who said he had bought it for £40 and suspected it had been stolen.

Mr Edwards said the burglary took place two years ago in the Maesglas area of Barry when McCann stole the keys of the owner's car and drove it away.

A RECENT presentation event hosted by the Vale Council's Partnership for Young Parents team recognised the achievements of young parents across the Vale.

Held at the Flying Start Family Centre on Gladstone Road, Amber Condy, Flying Start manager, presented the students with certificates and an Oxford dictionary.

Aine Morrison, the senior young parents support, said: "It's wonderful to see the progress of the young parents, the growth in their confidence and their commitment to their children's future."

LOW TURN-OUT IN BY-ELECTION: 'Parties should get the message right'

IWRITE with reference to Mr Kemp's recent letter about low turnout in the Rhose council by-election and would suggest that any combination of the following thoughts may have been in people's minds when they chose not to turn out:

"We had a general election year, Welsh Assembly elections last month, and the EU referendum last week; and now I'm being asked to vote again."

"None of the candidates represents my views."

"I've given up voting, because however I have voted in the past, little or nothing ever improves."

"We all know that career politicians are cut from the same cloth, regardless of the principles they claim to represent. None of them is to be trusted."

"The Vale Council has become a self-serving organisation with a complete disregard for its duty to its residents. It is a waste of time and if I don't vote to return a representative, it may just disappear."

Of course, we should see it as our duty to vote, but I think that canvassers are as much to blame as the public.

There was a time when, on the doorstep, canvassers from all parties would urge us to: "Use your vote, even if you don't vote for us. Your vote is important."

It has been nearly 20 years since I have heard this.

Political parties need to be sending the right message, not just the message which best suits them.

Alyson Fairweather, Barry.

'Landscape this unsightly site'

IWAS brought up after the war in a city pock-marked with bomb sites, but these eyesores, abundant with weeds and rubble, gradually disappeared as re-building took place and 70 years later, few signs of wartime bombing remain.

However, looking around from my home on the Barry Waterfront, I am confronted by a great shed-like Asda building, which somehow was granted planning permission.

I don't see its front (for that faces its own car park), but only its weed-infested, look-alike 'bomb site' back! This mess of mud and stones has been deteriorating for a couple of years and there are no signs of a remedy in sight.

Going online to find out more, does not help. Secrecy regarding future developments prevails and, besides, Barry people will put up with anything, won't they?

Look at the state of the quays.

It is obviously too late to turn the Asda supermarket around so that its 'front' faces Barry town, but surely funds were set aside to landscape this not very beautiful building?

Let these be used now to convert what has become a modern-day bomb-site into an area that properly fits into its outstanding Barry Waterfront surrounds.

Mac Tanner, Barry.

No hate crimes? 'Tell that to the person who vandalised my car'

Iread the report headed 'Councillor's racism allegations not backed in Cowbridge' (The GEM, July 7) on my return from overseas on July 13.

It made interesting reading, particularly as it quoted Liane Bartlett, of South Wales Police, claiming: "We have not seen an increase in hate crime incidents reported to us in the last week"; that may be true but there is one extra one now!

During the period I was away, some individual/s decided to take issue, cowardly, with my beliefs, criminally damaging my vehicle parked in the Town Hall car park.

(GEM NOTE: The letter writer had a 'Vote Leave' sticker on his car, and the word 'STAY' was scratched beneath it on the car's paintwork.)

I am not sure what the latest penalty for 'hate crime' is, but for criminal damage a term of up to 10 years' imprisonment can be applied – obviously, should the perpetrator be identified and convicted – unlikely in this case.

What is sadder for me, however, is that throughout the Referendum process, the Remainers were suggesting that they, the more intellectually-gifted demographic group, wanted to stay – while those less gifted were motivated to leave – hence the voting pattern in Cardiff and the Vale compared to other parts of Wales.

In the case of the vandal/s who damaged my vehicle in a criminal way, while taking issue with Young Brexiteers voted for what was best for them letter on July 7 headed

THE GEM

'Brexiteers were led like lemmings' by Steve Whitehead, strongly implies that those who have not had a university education are less intelligent and 'easily led'.

So, how come the Remain group couldn't persuade them to see it their way? Could it be that young Brexiteers should be given more credit for being 'streetwise' in their thinking?

They look around their locality, talk to friends and family. They have taken their own experiences of work and opportunities into account, and voted for what they thought was 'best for them'.

Which is what we all do!

About half of the 'young group' are either in higher education or have completed it, so why didn't it galvanise them to vote Remain?

I find that strange. But there again, I find it strange that the UK has one of the largest economies in the world and yet has foodbanks in the Vale.

Even 'stranger', I find it puzzling that Alun Cairns MP finds it strange that the Valleys voted Leave.

I think he'll find that the Vale and the Valleys are like 'chalk and cheese'.

B Hall, Llantwit Major.

my stated belief, their intellectual development has clearly been arrested – but that is their problem.

Our problem, as residents of Cowbridge, is that he/she also challenged any 'safe space' we have to communicate different beliefs to others locally.

Such behaviour is far more serious and exemplifies the slow breakdown of the rule of law, both locally and nationally, exacerbated by the light touch 'policing by passing panda' that more visible and effective policing of our community has been reduced to.

Dr Paul Langmaid CBE, Cowbridge.

Miners who put principles before own self-interest

BACK in Victorian times, the miners of south Wales were the most intelligent, principled voters in Britain.

Their politics were not shaped by the simple self-interest that motivates angry, confused voters of today, but on their clear vision of social justice for every citizen, a sense of purpose which is not even understood now.

Of course, the destruction of heavy industries has made it more difficult for thoughtful voters to share their thoughts and discover common cause, in the clubs and chapels which they had built.

Politics now is completely splintered between different factions who have no desire to search for the Common Good. That ideal has been murdered by some politicians and the moguls of the national media, in favour of selfish 'individualism', which is easier for them to control.

A society without principles can only travel in one direction, helpless in a free market economy manipulated by advertising gurus and greedy tycoons, towards the mindless, aggressive populism of Donald Trump.

It is a logical development, that complete self-centredness must lead to resentment of everyone else, instead of the collective principles of mutual concern nurtured by Clem Attlee and Ghandi.

C N Westerman, Brynna.

Praise for display

LAST Tuesday, I visited the War Museum exhibition at Barry Island Railway Station. What a joy!

It was so informative and the tour gave an opportunity to see a mock-up of an air raid shelter, a 'model' plate of a week's rations and several other items of interest.

So much research and effort has gone into this project. The two staff members were suitably attired, and very helpful.

If GEM readers haven't seen it, I recommend they do so soon. As a former teacher, it would be good to see schoolchildren there.

Well done!
(Name and address supplied).

Painting reminder of author's tribute to hospital chief

IN the July 7 edition of The GEM, you published an article 'Battle of the Somme – in art' which included a painting captioned 'Care of Wounded Soldiers at Cardiff Royal Infirmary'.

The painting depicts Lieutenant Colonel David Hepburn, commanding officer of the Third Western General Hospital, visiting wounded soldiers at the King Edward VII hospital – later re-named Cardiff Royal Infirmary – in 1916.

At the time, he was Dean of the Faculty of Medicine in Cardiff.

The painting is now at the Queen Alexandra's Royal Army Nursing Corps Museum in Aldershot, having originally hung in one of the main corridors at CRI.

A detailed biography of Professor Hepburn by the historian Dr Alun Wyn Roberts appears in my book Blood, Guts and Heroes – a tribute to those doctors from Wales who were involved with the Great War.

John Jenkins, Miskin.

'Mrs Roberts, you have been amazing'

WITH the recent publication of the amalgamation of Cadoxton Nursery and the shameful removal of the headteacher Mrs Susan Roberts to save money, we feel as a community, no public credit has been given to her excellent leadership.

Mrs Roberts has led the nursery with her staff for 11 years and in our minds, as parents and grandparents, hasn't had the recognition she so deserves.

Under her guidance, the nursery has gone from strength-to-strength.

Without her understanding of the children and families in the area, the nursery wouldn't be what it is today – an excellent one! On hearing families' comments regarding her passion for the nursery and how they felt about the importance of her knowing their children and families so well, often going beyond the call of duty, we felt we had to write.

Mrs Roberts, we applaud you!

You have been a loyal, dedicated head, with a clear vision for the children.

You are caring, compassionate, kind-hearted and loved!

Susan Roberts, on behalf of staff, governors, parents, families and the local community, you have been amazing – thank you!

Cadoxton Nursery supporters.

HIGH TIDE TIMES

(UNTIL JULY 28)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary.

For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 – 25 minutes later.

DATE	Time	Ht	Time	Ht
	AM	M	PM	M
21 Thur	08.12	9.7	20.29	9.9

Residents appeal for security gates to be fixed

Newydd Housing Association told The GEM the gates would be fixed soon.

VULNERABLE residents in a Newydd Housing development in Barry have complained that security gates have been out of action since last year.

The GEM met residents last Friday who stressed that it was important the gates should be locked because some people on the site have personal reasons to be concerned about their safety.

Newydd Housing Association said earlier this week that the damage had been inspected and hoped the gates would be fixed very soon.

One resident said: "There is a total lack of security. The gates have been out of operation for 10 months now."

"We even had a letter in April saying charges were being increased to pay for the gates."

"We've had people coming from outside the development dumping their rubbish in the refuse area, hiding drugs and trying car doors."

"We've even had a Ka car dumped in the car park."

Another said: "People coming in and dumping their rubbish from outside the development has even encouraged rats."

The gates lead to a car park area and doors to residents' apartments.

A third resident commented: "Some people are housed here for personal safety issues and the gates are wide open. It is important for people to feel safe here."

Residents say the solution is for two responsible keyholders to be nominated, and a simple 'key and lock' operation adopted. They believe something operated by code would not work because a code can be easily given away.

Paul Roberts, the chief executive of Newydd Housing Association said: "We apologise for the inconvenience and upset this has caused to tenants living in the area."

"We believe a car damaged the gates last month, which has caused considerable damage."

"The damage has been inspected and we are now working with contractors to fix the electric gates as soon as we can."

We urge tenants to continue to report any issues to us as soon as possible by calling 0303 040 1998."

New Barry Island access road set to open this week

A SECOND route to Barry Island's Harbour View car park and an exit from the resort itself is set to be opened this week.

The new Barry Waterfront link road connects the popular seaside resort with the nearby Waterfront housing development.

The new road will be in use from Friday, July 22 and will provide an alternative route by which cars can travel away from the resort during the busy summer holiday period, as well as one by which they can enter and exit the Harbour Road car park.

Construction of the new road, initially not due to be completed until 2018, was brought forward as a result of a collaborative agreement between the Vale Council and the Waterfront Development Consortium.

Couns Moore and King survey the progress of the new road.

Coun Neil Moore, leader of the Vale Council, said: "The Vale of Glamorgan Council has been working hard to see a new road link established to and from Barry Island for many years."

"Our goal has always been to make it easier for residents and visitors to get to and from Barry Island at peak times. With the busiest time of year for the resort just around the corner, we have negotiated to get us to a point where the new road can be opened in time for the summer holidays, while still allowing the development of the surrounding area to continue."

"The new road will allow entry into the Harbour Road car park from both the Island Causeway as well as to and from the Waterfront development. However, the exit from the car park will be restricted to travel towards the Waterfront."

BARRY-EDUCATED SMITH TO TAKE ON CORBYN

OWEN SMITH, a former pupil of Barry Comprehensive School, is the sole contender looking to replace Jeremy Corbyn as leader of the Labour Party.

Whilst not hailing from Wales – he was born in Morecambe, Lancashire – the MP for Pontypridd was educated in Barry before leaving to read history and French at the University of Sussex.

Smith (46) joined the Labour Party aged 16 and following university, joined the BBC, working as a journalist on news and current affairs programmes including Today on Radio 4.

After leaving journalism, he worked as a lobbyist for pharmaceutical companies, then three years as a Government special adviser, principally at the Northern Ireland Office.

Mr Smith was elected as MP for Pontypridd in 2010 and retained his seat in the 2015 general election.

Mr Smith has tossed his hat in the Labour leadership ring alongside Mr Corbyn.

Barry-born Damian Green, the Conservative MP for Ashford, joined the Cabinet last week. Green, 60, has been made Secretary of State for Work and Pensions.

Damaged car a 'hate crime' – Brexit voter

ON July 7, The GEM ran a story about alleged 'hate crime' in the area following the EU Referendum and the 'Leave' vote.

The piece – which included the results of a snap poll of people in Cowbridge – was in response to a letter to the editor regarding an incident said to have taken place in the town post-Referendum. The writer said his wife, an EU national, had come home "in floods of tears" after overhearing comments that "immigrants" should "get on with it and leave", though he stressed this conversation was not directed at her.

A news release from a Barry councillor seemed to add weight to the assertion of increased hate crime in the Vale.

However, inquiries to South Wales Police revealed this not to be the case. A force spokesman stated: "There has not been a marked increase in (racially-motivated) hate crime linked to Brexit or the EU Referendum in the Vale."

The GEM later received a further statement in which South Wales Police Superintendent Liane Bartlett confirmed: "We have not seen an increase in hate crime incidents reported to us in the past week" (since the Referendum).

A letter in this edition (see page 2) may be the first post-Referendum case locally of a suspected crime linked to a person's beliefs – in this case, support for Brexit – being reported to the police.

The writer, Dr Paul Langmaid, returned from a trip to find that his car, which had been left in the public car park behind Cowbridge Town Hall and had a 'Vote Leave' sticker in the window, had been 'keyed'.

Dr Langmaid reported the incident on July 15 and was pleased at the attention given by the PCSO who dealt with the incident.

However, Dr Langmaid was told that tracing the person or persons responsible would be "unlikely". The car park has no CCTV and as Dr Langmaid suggests in his letter, policing is by 'passing panda'.

Dr Langmaid, told The GEM, this week: "It could have been done at any time over the course of a few days in a busy car park. Who knows how many people later brushed by my car or, innocently, left their fingerprints on it, possibly contaminating the crime scene."

Dr Langmaid said that he had been careful to phrase his report to the police with reference to the definition of "hate crime", which, as given on www.gov.uk is:

"Crimes committed against someone because of their disability, gender-identity, race, religion or belief, or sexual orientation."

In Dr Langmaid's case, he is sure that the act of vandalism took place purely because of the pro-Leave sticker in his car and was, therefore, an attack against his political beliefs.

"I qualified, in my report to the police, that this was similar to a 'hate crime', because it was an attack on my beliefs," said Dr Langmaid.

"Whoever vandalised my car, challenged any 'safe spaces' we have in Cowbridge to communicate different beliefs to others."

"I do not know if anyone else has experienced anything similar, but I would urge anyone who has, to report it. Don't be put off; it is very easy to do, and it will let the police more accurately show what suspected crimes have taken place."

South Wales Police confirmed that the incident is under investigation and asked the public to contact 101 quoting reference #2675447.

The police force has emphasised: "We urge anyone who believes they have been the victim of any hate crime, or has fears about the safety of themselves or their community to contact South Wales Police on 101 non-emergency number or 999 in an emergency."

New services in Barry for adults with learning disability

SEND is a new day service for adults with a learning disability that has recently opened in Barry.

Laura White, who started the provision, said: "I started SEND because I felt that there was a lack of provision for adults with a learning disability, once they left college."

"Many families are given direct payments as a way of accessing services in the community, but I felt there was a lot of confusion over what they could access."

"Therefore, I wanted to simplify the process and offer a full day of provision (from 10am-3pm) with other adults, where they meet and learn new skills throughout the day."

"We have seen a vast improvement in our students' overall literacy, numeracy and social skills, which they so desperately miss once college has ended."

If you would like more information, contact Laura on 07861378311, or visit the website www.specialneeds Cardiff.co.uk.

SHUTTERBUGS SNAP UP THE CLUB PRIZES

BARRY Camera Club recently hosted the Barrian Cup and Dave Cowdrey Trophy, an annual event supported by the Barry Town Council and this year was officially opened by the major of Barry Town Council, Coun Emma Pritchard.

The Barrian Cup competition is for the best panel of five prints and was the year judged by Michael Krier from the Cotswolds.

Competition from the 26 clubs from Wales and the west of England that entered was fierce with Gwynfa Camera Club winning with 96 points, Inn Focus taking second place with 93 points, and third place being shared by Bridgend Camera Club and Cymru Mono who each scored 92 points.

The Dave Cowdrey trophy for the best landscape or seascape print was won by Gareth Martin, retaining the trophy that he won last year.

Congratulations to all prize winners!

Our summer programme has included a demonstration of 'water droplet' photography by Sarah Savage, demonstrations of mounting and framing photographs from Rob Owens, a macro/close up workshop evening supervised by Steve Everitt and a 'photo marathon' at Barry Island. To take advantage of the (hopefully) better weather, the club is planning photographic trips to Llantwit Major beach, Ogmore Castle, Penarth Pier and Skomer Island in the coming weeks, as well as specialist trips to be organised by the wildlife group.

Anyone with an interest in photography should come along to the club at the Millennium Centre, Porth-Y-Castell.

Throughout the remainder of 2016, we have a full programme of talks, demonstrations, photographic expeditions, competitions and inter-club battles planned.

New members are particularly encouraged and will be made most welcome with a programme being prepared especially for the new and less experienced photographers to allow them to quickly gain more proficiency and satisfaction from their hobby.

Barry Camera Club meets every Friday evening from 7pm to 9.30pm at St Francis Millennium Centre, Porth-y-Castell, Barry Garden Suburb, Barry, CF62 6NX.

We are a very friendly organisation and new members of all experience and skill levels are always welcome to attend with no obligation to join.

Fallen of Mametz Wood remembered by St Cyres school

ON July 7, a party of sixth formers and staff from St Cyres School in Penarth acted as wreathbearers and wreathlayers at the national service of commemoration for the Welsh soldiers who took part in the Battle of Mametz Wood on the Somme in 1916.

Afterwards, the students and staff attended a talk by Robin Mellor and Chris Coode of The Great War Society on the uniforms and kit of the soldiers of the 1914-1918 War.

Dr Jonathan Hicks, headteacher of St Cyres School, then talked to the group about the men who lost their lives in the battle, many of whom are buried in the nearby Flatiron Copse Cemetery. Pupils and staff later visited Ypres to attend the Last Post ceremony at the Menin Gate.

Mike's locomotive (film) goes off the rails during a BBC broadcast!

by TIM CHAPMAN

Photographer Mike Wilcock, who regularly covers Barry Tourist Railway, runs a very successful YouTube video channel featuring his own classic railway films – and last week, one of them made national headlines.

So far Mike has had 943,000 hits on YouTube and he thinks he will pass the 1,000,000 mark later this year.

He said: "A production company called Plum Pictures contacted me because they had seen my YouTube channel and wanted to use some of my film for the BBC 4 series Trainspotting

Mike Wilcock.

Live.

"It was broadcast on BBC 4 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings last week.

"They were live at stations like Didcot, Stafford and Clapham Junction."

But the BBC got a little mixed up.

Mike explained: "Peter Snow announced a live shot of some class 66 locomotives and they put my film on, but it wasn't live - it was obviously recorded."

Eagle-eyed railway enthusiasts were quick to point out the BBC's howler. In fact, the story made The Sun's front page.

On the whole, Mike is not complaining about the BBC's series. He said: "The good thing was that it brought railway enthusiasts into the 21st century, demonstrating that it's now about video cameras and mobile phones, not trainspotters in anoraks with kept outside in specially created Japanese gardens which Don has designed.

His garden in Llantwit Major can be visited by prior arrangement.

The August meeting is the annual open meeting when all the groups will demonstrate what they do.

Everyone is welcome to come to the Old School, Sully, between 2pm and 4pm on Thursday, August 11 to have a cup of tea and see what the U3A is all about.

SUSAN COLMAN

Banzai for bonsai!

FOR their July meeting, members of Sully U3A were treated to a fascinating talk by Donald Knight, on the subject of Japanese gardens and the art of bonsai.

He explained that bonsai, which means 'tree in a pot', has been his passion since he was a child, and that it is all about imagination and copying nature.

He brought several of his trees with him, including an English elm which he has been growing for 35 years.

All of his trees are

STAN (90) BARRY'S OLDEST CUB, RENEWS HIS SCOUTS' PROMISE!

STAN SMITH, Barry's oldest known former Cub had a very busy time recently.

On June 28, he visited the Cubs at 11th Barry Sea Scout group where he talked to the pack about his experiences both as a Cub and Scout in the 1930s.

Stan, who is 90 this month, was invested into 3rd Barry's Wolf Cub Pack, as Cubs were known in 1932. He fondly remembers his time in cubs and spoke about the very first badge he earned, which was the athletics badge, which they did at the Butts.

He told the latest generation of girls and boys about the camps at Porthkerry Park, and the fun they used to have trying to erect these tents.

Every summer, 3rd Barry would go by ferry from Barry Pier across to Weston-Super-Mare, where, after having competitions and playing games on the beach, they would all go to Shakespeare's Cafe for dinner.

The highlight of the trip came after dinner when the Cubs were allowed across the road to the toy shop.

During the evening Stan showed the girls and boys his original Scout whistle, which he was presented with when he was a Patrol Leader in the Scout Section at 3rd Barry. This whistle held lots of precious memories for him and rather than it sit in a drawer gathering dust, Stan presented it to the 11th Barry's Cub pack.

To round things off the 11th's chief Akela, Peter Evans, presented Stan with a 'Cubs 100' celebration badge and necker.

This was followed by Stan renewing his Scout promise as 11's Group Scout leader Bryan Foley, formally invested Stan as a member of the 11th Barry Sea Scout Group and presented him with the group's neckerchief.

Following his visit to the 11th Barry, Stan was also invited by district commissioner Chris Parsons to formally open this year's Scout and Guide Fete.

Stan was only supposed to stay for an hour or so, but was having so much fun watching today's Scouts and Guides doing similar activities to those he enjoyed, that he refused to go home and stayed the entire day!

Stan celebrates his 90th birthday later this month and from all of us in Scouting, we wish him a very happy birthday.

NEIL MURRAY,

Stan Smith renews his promise to the 11th Barry Sea Scout Group.

Tea Party Blooming Great success..!

The raffle had many lucky winners!

THE fifth annual 'Blooming Great Tea Party' held on Saturday, July 16, hosted by Mike and Barbara Camilleri of Penarth, raised £1,022 for the Marie Curie cancer charity.

"Everyone enjoyed the stalls, a wonderful array of baked goodies, and a visit from Peppa Pig!" a spokesperson reported.

Missing woman: police issue appeal

POLICE are appealing for information to locate Alice Doran (29) of Windsor Road, Penarth, who was last seen at 2.15pm on Monday, July 11.

She is described as 5ft 2ins, of stocky build, with shaven brown hair and at the time she went missing, was wearing a blue t-shirt with red and white writing on the front, grey shorts and blue Nike Air trainers. She has a number of tattoos on her arms.

Anyone who has seen her, or who knows her whereabouts, should contact 101, quoting reference *259790; or call Crimestoppers, free and anonymously on 0800 555 111.

'Fantastic' Victoria Park fun day

RIGHT: Alun Cairns (third right), with Pastor Ken and the Texas delegation from Mount Pleasant Baptists' US sister church.

VALE MP and Secretary of State for Wales, Alun
Cairns, has praised the Mount Pleasant Baptist Church for organising what he called 'one of the best community events in Barry' on July 19, the Victoria Park
Family Fun Day in Cadokton.

The event, which attracted families from across Barry, was well attended despite the occasional shower and people enjoyed the competitions, donkey rides and stalls.

It was also attended by representatives from Mount Pleasant's sister
Baptist church in Fort Worth, Texas.

Mr Cairns officially opened the fun day with a speech thanking Pastor Ken Ivesson from the local church and Pastor Stephen Lowrie from the US, for making the event a success and bringing the local community together.

He also spoke of the "constant that runs through all our lives giving comfort uncertain times" while touching on the shootings of police in Texas, in a reference to the solace that many find in their Christian faith.

Mr Cairns said: "It was fantastic to see so many local parents and children having such good a time in such a good natured way. The sense of positivity and community spirit was palpable."

"I am so grateful to all those who were involved in organising it for helping to boost the local community."

NEW CYCLEWAY IS OPENED ON THE ISLAND CAUSEWAY

THE regeneration of Barry Island has
opening of the new Causeway footpath and cycleway running from the Ship Inn junction, to the Old Harbour car park.

The upgraded link with a wide footway, refurbished railings, lighting and seating has been fully funded by the Vale Council and the scheme supports the council's engagement with sustainable transport options as well as coastal protection.

It is hoped that the cycling network can be extended in future and design work has been undertaken to link this scheme to the path completed around Friars Point, as well as joining the Waterfront consortium plans for cycling provision alongside the Barry Island link road.

Coun Lis Burnett, cabinet member for regeneration and education, said: "I am pleased that another step in the regeneration of Barry Island has been completed and this scheme shows the continuing commitment of the Council to improving the environment at Barry Island which has received so much media coverage in recent months."

"At the photo shoot, a group of young skate-boarders rolled past the Leader of the council and me shouting their thanks for the scheme, it made our day."

'He's my hero' SAYS GEORGE AS HE MEETS HIS PARAMEDIC LIFESAVER

by PHILIP
IRWIN

A 10-year-old Cowbridge boy who was lapsing into anaphylactic shock was saved by a Maesteg paramedic – and recently met his "hero" to thank him personally

George Howell attends Y Bont Faen Primary School pupil and has had a difficult few years bravely fighting serious illnesses.

He was prescribed a diet including mixed nuts to get him back up to strength, and all was going smoothly until he ate a Brazil nut.

This particular nut was later identified as the culprit, but there had been no previous reaction to nuts.

His mother Helen said: "George was happily tucking into the bag of nuts when all of a sudden he started stroking his neck. "He then ran out of the front door, was physically sick and tried drinking water but nothing seemed to be working. George was breathing very heavily and was having an anaphylactic reaction.

"I phoned 999 and the ambulance service call-taker was excellent. She told me to try and keep George calm and still, gave me some advice and directions and told me to go back to George whilst the paramedic was on his way.

"I tried to get him to take an antihistamine but he couldn't keep it down. His face started to swell and he had a rash of white spots on his neck.

"I comforted George on the settee and it was not long before our 'knight in shining armour' arrived in the form of Cowbridge paramedic Alex Becker. He was fantastic and knew exactly what to do.

"I honestly don't know what we'd have done without him. He was so good with George and quite honestly if it wasn't for Alex I dread to think where George would be today."

The events of that day in March 2015 were clearly embedded deep in the Howell family, so much so that some months ago when Helen was shopping in Cowbridge, she came across Alex attending to a patient.

Although George made every effort to run over to meet him, Alex had to leave to attend another call.

It took Helen several months to track Alex down via emails to the Welsh Ambulance Service, but 16 months on from George's emergency, they finally met up when Alex visited him at home. "It's wonderful to meet up with George, Helen and the family again," said Alex, who is originally from Birmingham but now lives with his wife Jess near Maesteg.

"George was very poorly when I last turned up at the house. I was Acting Clinical Team Leader at the time and though I've been doing this job for over five years, I've only had a small handful of 'anaphylactic reaction' type calls which have been as serious.

"I can't believe how well George is today. He's a brave boy and I hope he now goes on from strength to strength.

"It's lovely that he and his mother have wanted to thank me in person. For me, what I did with George is just part of my job, but to find the family so grateful is very uplifting and a boost to me and my colleagues in the service.

"In fact, it should be me thanking George because as a result of attending his call I soon realized that back on the road attending calls day to day is exactly what I wanted to do, rather than going out on calls now and again.

"So that's where I am now as full-time paramedic working out of Cowbridge Ambulance Station...and loving every minute of it."

Both Alex and Helen had the following advice for parents who find their child suffering from an anaphylactic reaction: "Stay calm, try and help the child by breathing with them and getting them to follow your breathing rhythm, stay in control, try and find what you think might be the possible source of the allergy and remove it and put it to one side for the attending clinical staff, but most important of all phone 999 immediately."

As for George himself, he presented a 'thank you' card to Alex on which he'd written the words "You are the light in the darkness. Thank you."

On meeting Alex for the first time since his allergic reaction, George simply said: "Alex is my hero!"

'Misleading information over travellers' site' – says councillor But Vale Leader insists, 'Complain through the correct channels'

I WOULD like to take the opportunity to reply to the council leader Coun Neil Moore's comments with regard to my criticism of his cabinet's adoption of the Vale planning department recommendation to allow continued unauthorised occupation by travellers of the Hayes Road site in Sully. This is despite a Welsh Assembly planning inspector's rejection of the greater site as a permanent traveller site on safety grounds.

Despite Coun Moore's defensive rhetoric when approached for comment in such matters, for him to stand by and allow his officers to publicly suggest that, "it was not correct to say that the inspector called for the site to be removed over safety issues" is almost too staggering to contemplate.

One can only assume that the comments of Assembly planning inspector, Mr Richard Jenkins, in pointing out the extent of the C2 flood zone area and his concerns for anyone resident at the site in gaining access to medical or other emergency services in times of the regular flooding, were imagined during the inspector's summing-up and instruction of deletion of the site.

Coun Moore also makes reference to my presentation to the environment and regeneration scrutiny committee.

He conveniently omits that the Vale planning department officers repeatedly expressed to councillors of that committee the misleading statement, that no part of the current Hayes Road site is contained within the C2 flood zone – despite being challenged by both myself and fellow Sully councillor, Bob Penrose, who are fully conversant with the flood zone map.

After hearing the same misleading information three times, Coun Anne Moore, who was chairing the meeting, asked for the council officers to supply a copy of the C2 flood zone map and the committee meeting was immediately informed by planning officers that the site does indeed include part of the site within the flood zone.

I would like to think that Vale residents are as alarmed as me that the Vale planning department can mislead councillors making decisions based on the accuracy of the information given to them in this manner, even if Coun Moore doesn't.

I feel it is significant that not one councillor, other than me or Bob Penrose, questioned why they were being given such misleading information by council officers, until challenged to actually produce the map.

One can only wonder if this behaviour is being repeated in other council decision-making scenarios.

It goes without saying that there is no mention of this incident in the official minutes posted on the Vale's website; what a surprise!

In conclusion, Coun Moore mentions that councillors praised the officers for the work they have carried out.

It surely has gone straight over Coun Moore's head that continual praising by his and other parties' councillors of the Vale Council when there has been a failure to reach objectives (in this case well over five years) is a reason to question the competence of his administration, rather than to criticise others.

Coun Kevin Mahoney, (Sully and Lavernock ward)

THE Vale of Glamorgan Council leader, Coun Neil Moore, did respond in detail to Coun Mahoney's original comments last week.

This week, the Vale Leader said: "Councillor Mahoney knows the full details of the situation.

"Unfortunately, he seems unable to accept the outcome.

"There is little else I can add, other than to reiterate that if he wishes to complain he has been advised that there are proper channels by which to do so.

"Those channels are not the pages of newspapers."

Tons of support for the Vale foodbank

TESCO customers in the Vale recently donated more than 3,626.5kg of food for the Vale foodbank.

The collection, which took place in stores at Port Road, Barry and Penarth, was supported by members of the Rotary Club of Barry, foodbank staff and employees of the supermarkets.

BATTLE OF MAMETZ WOOD IS REMEMBERED

British Legion standards.

Band of the Royal Welsh at Thiepval.

by PHILIP DAVIES

ON Thursday, July 7, a significant number of people from the Vale joined with a congregation of more than 800 to commemorate the battle of Mametz Wood, on the Somme, where during a period of five days in 1916 4,000 Welshmen were killed or wounded.

This event was the Welsh National Act of Commemoration and Reconciliation for 2016.

The service organised by the south Wales branch of the Western Front Association (WFA) and supported by the Welsh government was led by the most Reverend Dr Barry Morgan, Archbishop of Wales. Music was provided by the band of the 3rd Battalion, the Royal Welsh Regiment and the Treorchy Male Choir.

In a very moving service, readings were given by the First Minister Carwyn Jones, Lieutenant General Jonathon Riley, Marietta Crichton-Stuart, Sir Deian Hopkin, and Philip Davies of the WFA.

The service was attended by leaders of the political parties in the National Assembly, Andrew RT Davies, Leanne Wood and Neil Hamilton, who laid wreaths on behalf of the Welsh people as did local French political leaders, including Madame Odile Bureau representing the préfet de Peronne and the mayor of Mametz, Stephan Brunel.

After the service, wreaths were handed to the wreath layers by pupils from St Cyres School and members of the North Wales Army Cadets.

Pride of place was given to the families of men who had fought and died at Mametz, one family travelling from Australia and another from Canada.

John Lougher laid a wreath on behalf of NFU Cymru and Jackie Lougher of St Athan laid a wreath on behalf of Pte Bertie Jenkins of St Athan, who was killed in the wood and who has no known grave.

Following the service, the villagers of Mametz laid on a Champagne reception for the many visitors. In the evening a wonderful concert was given to an appreciative audience by the Treorchy Male Choir in the Basilica of Notre Dame des Brebieres in Albert.

On subsequent days, poppies and Welsh flags were laid on the grave of each Welsh soldier killed in the battle in three nearby cemeteries.

A service was also held at the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing of the Somme, where the names of 751 Welsh soldiers killed at Mametz Wood and who have no known graves are commemorated.

VALE MP's VIEWPOINT

'Remember the heroes who put charity before self'

ON Friday, I had the pleasure of meeting representatives from Breast Cancer Now and the Brain Tumour Charity, to hand over the sponsorship money so kindly donated by local people to support my London Marathon effort.

I am always struck by the selflessness and decency of those who choose to commit so much time and effort to good causes, and the staff and volunteers I met from both charities were no exception.

I run the marathon once a year to raise money for charity, it is of course difficult and the training can be tough, but it is ultimately an activity that I enjoy.

The race pits me against my Westminster colleagues and I am pleased to say that for the last two years I have finished as the fastest MP.

I am in awe, however, of those who raise money week in, week out, rain or shine – through hard work that cannot always be fun or competitive.

I have the privilege of working with various local charities in my role as the Vale MP, and see first-hand the tireless dedication and goodness of people in our communities who do their utmost to help others struggling in a range of circumstances.

Unceasing volunteers like Barry's Susan Borges, who fundraises for Marie Curie, maintaining their hospice care

Welsh Secretary
ALUN CAIRNS reports to GEM readers

and for the Brian Tumour Charity, helping them to continue developing treatments.

I have spent time with those who volunteer for PDSA, helping pets whose owners cannot afford medical treatment and with Macmillan coffee morning hosts who do so much to support those suffering with cancer.

The impact of their work is heart-warming to witness. I know many in the constituency who have suffered with severe illnesses, benefiting directly from the work of charities, in terms of personal support and indirectly through access to treatments that would be unavailable without charitable research funding.

And I will always remember Champ, the friendly golden Labrador, who would have faced an early death if it had not been for the medical attention he received from the PDSA while I was visiting their Holton Road branch in Barry.

There is an army in our communities, made up of ordinary men and women, who with cheerfulness and steely determination are improving our lives without direction from government.

Their constant efforts benefit us all, and although we may sometimes criticise the practices of certain charities, we must never forget to be grateful to those who are committing their energy to a greater good.

None of their fundraising work would be possible without the deep generosity and kindness of the people of this country who do not fail to give profusely to good causes. I have been humbled by this deep well of compassion myself, with over £7,500 given in sponsorship for this year's marathon bid.

If you know of any charities whose work within the Vale of Glamorgan you would like me to promote, or if you would like to suggest a charity for me to fundraise for as part of my 2017 London Marathon attempt, please contact me on alun.cairns.mp@parliament.uk.

Keep up the good work!

VALE CHURCH RECEIVES FUNDS FOR ROOF REPAIRS

St Nicholas Church in the Vale will benefit from £92,200 and other fundraising grants of £36,500, making a total of £128,700 – to address urgent roofing and associated repair works.

St Nicholas Church Parish Council applied for the grant through the Government-funded 'Listed Places of Worship: Roof Repair Fund'.

St Nicholas Church, a grade II listed building, has pre-Norman origins and been the centre of worship for the community for many hundreds of years.

The church plays a very active part in the life of the community through weekly worship, services for special occasions, local school services, regular social events and a ministry to visitors and tourists.

St Nicholas Church.

especially to its roof with the last quinquennial inspection in 2014 identifying the roof coverings as in 'poor condition' and the failure of which is causing damage internally.

This money will ensure the roof covering is renewed and the church is watertight and safe for everybody to use.

The completion of this project would represent a significant achievement for the community, in securing its future and realising long-term plans for exploring alternative uses.

This money is part of a wider funding package

The fund is administered by the National Heritage Memorial Fund on behalf of the Department for Culture Media and Sport.

Evening 'shout' for RNLI crew

THE volunteer crew of Barry Dock RNLI lifeboat station was called out to help the crew of a yacht that was taking on water on the coast close to St Donats.

The call came just after 8.45pm on Tuesday, July 12 and crew lost no time in making their way to the stricken yacht. When they reached the casualty, a lifeboat crewman was put on board the yacht to help the crew assess the situation.

It was quickly realised that an issue with the engine was causing the problem.

The RNLI crew escorted the yacht under sail to Barry Harbour, where they helped the boat owner to pump the remaining water out of the bottom of the boat.

SAFER VALE OPEN DAY PROMISES FUN FOR ALL

SAFER Vale, in conjunction with South Wales Police and South Wales Fire and Rescue Service, will hold an open day for the public at Barry Fire Station this Saturday (July 23).

The partnership is pulling out all the stops to showcase the fascinating work of all three blue-light services and the day promises to be fun-filled for all the family. Police dogs and horses will be there in support of police officers and firefighters who are lining-up a full programme of demonstrations.

There will also be face painting, a bouncy castle, a rodeo bull, arts and crafts, glitter tattoos, and a real hands-on reptile zone for people to get up close and personal to snakes, lizards and lots more.

Inspector Naomi Drew from Safer Vale, said:

"We are all very excited about the event – it is one of the best yet with an amazing line up of displays and activities."

The event – which is supported by Bro Radio – will start at 11am and end at 4pm; and entrance is free.

There will be a number of parking spaces for disabled drivers directly outside the fire station, but all other parking will be at Barry Comprehensive School which is directly opposite the venue.

Police seize drugs and make arrests in big operation

POLICE arrested 14 people and seized drugs from a number of addresses during a day-long police operation across Bridgend and the Vale on Wednesday, July 13.

Officers forced their way into four properties under the Misuse of Drugs Act and arrested suspects during the day of action called Operation Violet Oman.

Addresses in Porthcawl and in the Wildmill area of Bridgend were searched for drugs by specially trained teams.

The police say twenty cannabis plants were seized in total from addresses in Church Place and St David's Way, Porthcawl.

One person linked to the Church Place address was given a caution, whereas two people linked to St David's Way were charged with possessing controlled drugs and being concerned in the supply of class B drugs.

Another woman was arrested for allegedly possessing heroin by officers patrolling Bridgend town centre.

Police also arrested six suspects for offences which occurred in the Vale, Bridgend, and Maesteg, and who were wanted by police in connection with offences including assault, harassment, theft and public order.

The first warrant was executed at approximately 7am and activity continued through the day.

Nearly 40 police officers and PCSOs were involved in the operation including neighbourhood policing officers, mounted officers, specialist search teams, police dogs and dog handlers, traffic officers and crime prevention officers.

Inspector Melanie Knight, said: "The operation was about sending a message that we will pursue those involved in criminal activity and act on the information the public gives us."

"The public are our eyes and ears and are essential partners in the fight against all kinds of crime. Operations such as this one enhance our abilities to act upon the different concerns of local communities."

Officers involved in the operation also carried out checks on licensed premises and Bridgend retailers linked to the sale of psychoactive substances, and carried out high visibility patrols in priority areas.

Friends (and neighbours) at Fonmon!

'Friends and Neighbours' group members from Barry enjoyed a pleasant visit to Fonmon Castle as part of its summer programme.

Fonmon Castle, built in 1180, has had only two family owners with the Boothby family the current ones.

With more than three acres of land and beautiful gardens, the castle is a gem in the Vale.

As the members went on the tour of the castle, the guide - whose knowledge of the castle and its history was obvious - was amusing and had some very funny stories to tell.

She told us of the different ways of life and styles of living throughout the centuries.

With many portraits and paintings to admire, we were spoilt for choice with the many ancestors to admire. One picture took our collective eye, 'Queen Mary', who had visited the castle.

GF

We then went up the stunning staircase to the banquet room to be served afternoon tea, marvelling at the ceiling with its décor.

The tables were tastefully decorated with an array of flowers as a centre piece. We were served a selection of sandwiches followed by homemade chocolate brownies and chocolate cake. Then we had homemade scones with jam and fresh cream and lots of tea and coffee.

We had time to look around the splendid grounds and gardens, marvelling at the beautifully kept lawns and taking time to look around the scented and walled gardens and enjoying the scent of the many flowers.

The members are now looking forward to their strawberry cream tea at the July meeting and mystery trip in August.

Charity claims that 45,000 in Wales have dementia

ALZHEIMER'S Society in Wales submitted a petition to the new Assembly calling on Assembly Members to act and help people in Wales affected by dementia.

Nearly 6,000 people signed the charity's #45000reasons petition which highlights the charity's claim that 45,000 people are estimated to be living with dementia in Wales, and the further assertion that less than 50 per cent have received a formal diagnosis.

Mike Hedges AM, the newly-appointed chair of the Assembly's petitions committee, received the petition and said: "The charity's petition has shown the level of public support for a Wales dementia strategy. It's evident this is an issue close to the hearts of many people affected by dementia, their families and communities."

Council should 'get a grip' on travellers' site

SOUTH Wales Central AM, Andrew RT Davies, has criticised the Vale Council for informing travellers occupying the Hayes Road site in Sully that no enforcement action will be taken against them in the next five years.

The council has said it would not be able to move the travellers on until another site is found. It has been occupied since 2012.

Mr Davies said: "The sheer incompetence of the Vale of Glamorgan Council to effectively tackle this situation in Sully is of a huge frustration to the residents and local community in Sully."

"The travellers have occupied the land since 2012 and for the council to simply say it is 'working on a solution' is simply not acceptable - one year possibly, but four? That's incompetence of the highest order and the council needs to get a grip."

"With serious questions regarding contamination and general safety on the site it is imperative that action is taken to resolve this unacceptable situation."

Last week, the Vale Council explained that travellers are considered a vulnerable minority group, and that by law, it has to make provision for their needs.

A spokesman emphasised that the council was working to find an alternative site and those occupying the site could not be moved on until a new one was identified.

'PC DRONE' WILL HELP POLICE FIGHT CRIME

South Wales Police are introducing the latest technology, to keep communities safe and fight crime.

The force has acquired one drone, which will be used to carry out a wide range of tasks including assisting with searches for missing people, policing large-scale events, tackling anti-social behaviour and keeping officers safe.

Drones, or unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs), are used by many organisations across the world.

Regulated in the UK by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), UAVs offer frontline officers a different perspective on policing.

Assistant Chief Constable Jeremy Vaughan said: "Today marks a new chapter in our fight to prevent, deter and detect crime."

"In recent years, south Wales has been affected by deliberate fire setting and nuisance off-road bikers."

"Now that we have the capability to monitor and patrol areas which are geographically challenging, we can continue to keep south Wales a safe place in which to work and live."

CAA regulations state that drone operators must pass a national CAA accredited qualification. Currently, the force has 10 trained operators in place, their skills will be used to detect and deter crime across south Wales.

They will complement the service provided by the National Police Air Service and the force has worked closely with it in developing drones within south Wales.

Inspector Frances Williams, South Wales Police, added: "Drones offer many benefits that will support our current operational resources."

"This technology will provide a more cost-effective and efficient way of dealing with missing person searches, crime scene photography, and other police activities."

"Using a drone to capture footage on difficult terrain and hard to reach areas will allow officers to gain vital information, quickly, safely, and allow us to respond effectively at the scene."

"Initially, drones will be deployed to investigate grass fires and other rural crime and other community-based operations. As their capability develops, they will be deployed for more general policing work."

'Swarming' remains a big problem for the beekeepers

News from Fonmon Apiary by HAROLD WILLIAMS

RESPONDING to 'swarm calls' is still an on-going activity!

The very variable weather has been providing excellent growing conditions for plants and this in turn has meant lots of forage for the bees to exploit.

I have taken several lifts (boxes) of honey off and surprisingly there has not been a trace of oilseed rape honey to be seen.

One forage plant that has been very noticeable this year is the hawthorn, and I have observed bees on those very blossoms.

There are many other nectar and pollen-rich plants being visited by the bees thus providing, eventually, a truly multi-floral honey.

Although I have had some honey, the swarming activity of the bees has seen a reduction in the amount that was earmarked for removal.

Why is there going to be less honey for the beekeeper because a colony has decided to swarm?

Let's analyse the situation. At present in any one of the colonies alone there will be at least 60,000 to 70,000 bees and around 30,000 are primed to depart i.e.

swarm! Before they depart, each one will fill up with honey and what was a well-stocked colony is now a somewhat depleted colony.

As far as the bees are concerned, everything is going to plan - it is only the beekeeper that is dismayed...

So here we have a colony that has swarmed, and where there is still honey left in the hive... but this will be required by the remaining bees and definitely not for the beekeeper.

What happens now? Well, the bees that have been left behind do have new queens developing; several eggs laid by the departed queen will have been selected to become new queens.

Only one queen is required, so once one has hatched out, the other queens waiting to hatch will become surplus to requirements and will be disposed of i.e. killed!

It will be at least a month before the new queen begins to lay any eggs at all, and so begin to boost the colony's numbers.

For the new queen to function as she should, she has to be mated. For this to occur, she must leave the hive and meet up with male bees (drones) and she will mate with 10 to 20 of these drones, then return to the same hive she came from. There the inmates detect this change in her and the colony is now this new queen's in her own right. Consequently, all is well.

Can the beekeeper control this swarming? Yes, there are ways and means to do this - but you do not always succeed and the bees will swarm, anyway.

As a beekeeper, you manipulate a colony and hope you are doing the right thing. The bees are the masters - they know precisely what has to be done and when.

For those wishing to take up the art of beekeeping, it can be somewhat daunting at first and swarming is usually going to be the biggest problem they will have to address.

It is, however, a very worthwhile and absorbing pursuit.

My beekeeping activity started 40 years ago and it will continue until I become too frail to lift and carry the equipment associated with bees.

In other news, the Varroa mite is still a major threat and we are no nearer to defeating this parasite, so this is another facet of beekeeping that newcomers must become aware of.

We do need our pollinators, so we must have new beekeepers.

Forty jobs and a £1million investment 'Jump Jam' trampoline fun arrives in Bridgend

The Secretary of State for Wales, Alun Cairns MP, was keen to view the leisure facilities and try out the trampolines.

Alun Cairns, Jim Portsmouth, Teresa Payne and David Morse.

'JUMP Jam Trampoline Park' opened its new 26,000 square mega park with the Secretary of State for Wales, Alun Cairns, performing the opening 'Bounce Ceremony'.

The new multi-activity entertainment centre represents a £1million investment, has created 40 local jobs and will be Wales' largest trampoline park.

The owners hope the new business will take Bridgend, the Vale, the Port Talbot area and Cardiff by storm.

Inspired by the hugely popular US sporting phenomenon, Welsh-based 'Jump Jam' says it hopes the park will be the first of many UK parks.

The company wants to get the message across to the public that it is a brand new and exciting way to stay physically active and involve the whole family.

Over 7,500 Facebook followers were registered before the doors even opened. It is located near BandQ just off the M4 at Junction 35 only 15 minutes from Culverhouse Cross in Cardiff.

Jump Jam's operations director David

Morse commented: "Adding a new family orientated facility to the region is set to attract more people to the area, more families to the park and more converts to the sport of trampolining!"

"It's a new phenomenon in the UK that's really begun to take off – not only because it's fantastic fun, but also because it's something the whole family can take part in."

But there's lots more to Jump Jam than trampolining.

It is an entertainment centre offering daily activities such as toddler sessions, keep fit programs with renowned trainers such as Caz Roberts, weekly events, and children's birthday parties that are affordable and fun for the entire family.

There are Jump Jam's exclusive wall-to-wall trampoline arenas, dodgeball courts, three lane stunt-airbag, slam dunk areas, a 'half pipe trampoline runway' and a state of the art 'walk the wall' performance.

David added: "We have a high rise leap platform into a giant airbag as well as a new basketball and volleyball game that is great fun. One of the things we are most excited about is our four lane climbing wall with state of the art automatic climbing assist belays."

Jump Jam joint managing director and Cowbridge mumpreneur Teresa Payne, commented: "Following in the footsteps of other parks opening around the country and in Wales, we're thrilled with this state of the art facility on the M4 corridor which will mean more visitors will be able to see what all the excitement is about for themselves. Residents and visitors can expect to defy gravity and create lasting memories with friends and family with our innovative approach to family fun."

People can visit www.jumpjam.co.uk for all of the latest news and information. The company says it is advisable to book online in advance to ensure a spot because otherwise customers be disappointed. Booking online is also cheaper costing £7.95 for an hour off peak and £8.95 an hour for peak times.

For more information telephone 01656 253161 or email: info@jumpjam.co.uk.

PUPILS FOCUS ON HEALTHY LIVING

LAST week Llanfair Primary School took part in healthy school week when volunteers came from MoD St Athan to work with the children and help promote healthy living.

Physios, dentist, first aid staff, and PE instructors talked to the children and carried out various activities.

Dance Crazy Studio visited the school to promote a healthy lifestyle through dance and healthy foods were included in the lunchtime menus and used to make smoothies and fruit salads during classroom activities.

The children had a fantastic time while learning about the importance of a healthy lifestyle.

Lifeguards compete in Rowing League

LAST weekend, Llantwit Major Lifeguard Club's Surf Boat Team travelled to Cornwall for the last rounds of the UK Surf Rowing League.

The early season races, which took place in west Wales and north Devon, had already seen the men's and women's crews competing strongly against clubs from across the UK.

Due to a training injury, Llantwit ladies were unable to compete this weekend, however they have made fantastic strides in this, only their second full season. They have regularly finished highly, outscoring established crews from big surf lifesaving clubs such as Portreath and Perranport, and finished in third place.

On Saturday, the racing took place at Watergate Bay, a beach renowned for its fearsome waves. However on arrival, conditions were challenging but nothing that would potentially capsize a boat.

The boys did well through the rounds collecting points and won the golden point final which left them in a comfortable second, one point behind the leaders from Porthtowan.

Sunday's racing took place at Perranport, with the crews being met with clear blue skies, a busy beach and a 5-6 foot wave – perfect surf boat conditions.

After a nerve-jangling safety briefing from the event safety cover ("when your boat capsizes, only raise your arm if you are seriously hurt") Llantwit were one of two experienced crews chosen to test the conditions.

This was a wise move because while Llantwit managed to negotiate the big waves, the other team were sent sprawling out of their boat, which rolled and washed ashore.

The racing that followed was as spectacular as the weather and among the most exciting witnessed for many seasons.

In the first heat, the Llantwit crew were met with a huge set of waves and just before they were able to make it safely out behind the big swells, a big swell knocked them and snapped the solid wooden sweep oar used by the "sweep" to steer the boat.

To the boys' credit, they managed to negotiate both having no steering and the powerful surf to get back to the beach safely, however without completing the course this counted as a DNF and zero points.

Undeterred, a quick swap to the replacement sweep oar (usually reserved for calm conditions only) saw the men's team enter the second round more determined than ever.

As other teams were again being toppled and bested by the conditions, Llantwit managed to power through the waves, turn the cans with a healthy lead and then Mike Lord superbly handled the boat back into the beach for Llantwit to claim first place.

The third heat followed a similar pattern, with confidence in the testing waves now growing the team again got out through the waves in first place before catching a great wave back into the beach to win another heat.

The weekend's results secured Llantwit's position in the league and saw them finish second for the season. Having only narrowly lost out in the league to reigning European champions Porthtowan and having beaten them several times this season, the signs are good for the upcoming races this summer.

The teams will next be in action on Saturday, July 30 in the UK Open at Aberavon where they will attempt to defend their title, they will then head to Biarritz in the south of France to race in the European Championships, in September.

Men's team: Mike Lord, Gethin Edwards, Ben Thomas, Ross Frasier, Mathew Rowlands, Josh Edwards and Matthew Wright. Ladies team: Kate Tomley, Cath Thomas, Sian Davies, Emma Kaye, Heather Webber and Toyah Newman.

The team would like to thank sponsors Clive Edwards Contracting for the generous support so far this season.

The club is throwing a Hawaiian themed party at Llantwit Major Lifeguard hut on the evening of Saturday, July 30, with live music, BBQ and a bar.

These are always great nights, for more information please call in at Sunkissed in Llantwit Major or visit the Llantwit Major SLSC Facebook page or the website at llantwitmajorslsc.org.uk.

Ghost talk at Dinas Powys Probus Club

AT the recent meeting of Dinas Powys Probus Club, a very interesting and enjoyable talk was given by Mr James Cowan on 'Local Ghosts and Hauntings'.

James is a host guide on numerous ghost tours but concentrated on the surrounding areas. He started by asking the simple question, what are ghosts? Could it be a case of a figment of one's imagination, a shadow that moves, or are there really ghosts out there?

Ghost stories abound around Llandaff Cathedral, Cardiff Castle clock tower, Castell Coch and even Green Meadow business park in Tongwynlais, and he was able to show us photographs of children playing in the woods where today you can only see a swamp. Photos of hooded figures in Blackfriars caused animated discussion, as did the misty figures in the background.

James concluded by stating that there are more than 600 castles or their remains in Wales, each with a story to tell and he intended to explore them all.

Asked after the talk if he had ever encountered a ghost himself, James answered in the affirmative but would not reveal any details... rather scary.

The vote of thanks was offered by David Bray.

Information about the changes will also appear on the council's website, Twitter and Facebook accounts.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for visible, leisure and regulatory services, said: "Following a review of the collection rounds, the changes to collection days will help to maximise efficiencies for the council, with we hope, minimum disruption to residents."

Waste dates are to change

FROM Monday, August 1, the waste and recycling collection day for some households in the Vale will be changing.

The introduction of new collection days will allow the council to maximise vehicle usage and staffing, by optimising routes and collections.

All households will receive a letter notifying them of their new collection day or confirming that their existing collection day will be remaining the same.

POTHOLES: Compensation payments go up in the Vale to almost £250,000

COMPENSATION payments paid out by the Vale Council in relation to injuries and damage caused by potholes across the county has rocketed according to the latest figures.

A freedom of information request showed that in 2015, the Vale Council paid out nearly £250,000 in compensation payments, up from just under £200,000 in 2014.

These sorts of payments to individuals, organisations and companies have increased by 29.6 per cent since 2012.

The Vale Council pointed out it has invested £7m in the road network since 2012 and stressed it had to balance spending carefully between departments.

But South Wales Central AM and Welsh Conservative leader, Andrew RT Davies, said the state of roads in the Vale was a matter of concern for local motorists and that the issue was raised time and time again with him.

Andrew RT Davies AM examines a large pothole.

Mr Davies commented: "Sadly, this is likely to be only the tip of the iceberg with the true damage caused by potholes likely to be far higher, with many drivers deciding to not go through the rigmarole of contacting the local authority.

"Local residents will rightly look at the sharp increase in these figures since 2012 and recognise that if this money had been invested on roads maintenance we could have avoided paying out such significant amounts of taxpayers' cash in compensation."

INVESTMENT Miles Punter, the Vale's director of environment and housing services, said that there had been significant investment in the Vale's road network.

"The council fully recognises the importance of its highway network and since 2012 we have invested over £7m in highway resurfacing and treatment works.

"From this year we have also committed to invest a further £1.4m to fund the resurfacing and treatment works required for those roads and footways within our surfacing plan identified to be of highest priority.

"This funding is in addition to our pothole repair revenue budget. We will also continue to utilise our popular 'Big Fill' initiative to repair potholes outside of our current pothole repair programme, which allows residents to have an input into their local highway repair priorities, and we have specifically set aside £500,000 for this for 2016-17."

He added: "We believe that we have effective maintenance and resurfacing programmes commensurate with the budgets we have available but we, like all other councils, also have many other significant spending priorities, including areas such as education and social care.

"Our spending on highways and footways has to be balanced against these other priorities."

providing vital treatment, care and support."

Derek said he was fascinated by Patagonia, its history and connection with Wales and as a keen walker had always wanted to visit the area.

"The history of the Inca and the magnificent structures that they managed to build at such heights in the Andes is amazing, so I'm really looking forward to seeing Machu Picchu.

"The trek is going to be a challenge and I will need to get fitter over the next 14 months. "More importantly, I hope to raise loads of money for Velindre so it can continue to help people in the future and with more research hopefully find a cure for cancer.

"My walk on September 25 will be the start of my fitness regime and I hope lots of people sign up and join me."

Entry for the event is £5, and each participant will be required to raise a minimum of £50.

If you would like to join Derek, and Walk with the Weatherman, visit: www.velindrefundraisin g.com/bookonline.

Popular presenter practices Peruvian perambulation

WEATHER presenter Derek Brockway has signed up to trek to the lost Inca city of Machu Picchu in 2017 to raise funds for Velindre Cancer Centre.

To kick off his fundraising Derek will be leading a special walk on Sunday, September 25.

The eight-mile walk starts in Derek's home town of Barry, and follows a route through the old docks along the coast to the most southerly point on mainland Wales, Rhosce Point, taking in sandy beaches, an old watch tower, an Iron Age settlement and many of the other places featured in the TV series 'Gavin and Stacey'.

Derek said: "I took part in the Patagonia trek last November celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Welsh settlers leaving for South America.

It was a fantastic experience, very tough trekking conditions with a great group of people, but well worth it as we raised over £500,000 for Velindre.

"It's a wonderful charity and helps so many people including a few of my friends, family and work colleagues

The RSPCA is seeking the owner of the injured cat.

INJURED CAT FOUND IN CAR ENGINE

RSPCA Cymru is searching for the owner of an injured black cat found in a car engine in Penarth on Saturday, July 9.

RSPCA animal welfare officer Sian Burton said: "We don't know how long this cat was in this car for. She has a collar injury, is very thin and has scuffed claws. She is very friendly and is doing well in our care at RSPCA Merthyr Tydfil Clinic. She is around two to three years old."

Unfortunately, as she was not microchipped, the RSPCA has been unable to trace her owner.

"Microchipping your pet gives them the best chance of being identified and returned to you if they become lost or are stolen. But microchipping is only effective if pet owners make sure their contact details are correct," Sian said.

Anyone who may have information about this cat and knows who his owner is should contact the RSPCA inspectorate appeal line on 0300 123 8018. Calls are treated in confidence.

War medals stolen in Barry

POLICE are appealing for information following a burglary in Blackwell Close, Barry.

War medals and cash were stolen from the house on Thursday, July 14.

In total, 18 war medals, including 10 First World War victory medals, were taken sometime between 7am and 6pm.

Anyone who has information about the incident is urged to contact South Wales Police on 101 quoting reference *264407, or call Crimestoppers free and anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Memories of the Caterpillar Club

A FRIEND of mine who died recently at the age of 96, had been a member of the little-known Caterpillar Club.

He had served with Royal Air Force bomber crews in the Second World War. I am not sure if this was an official Air Ministry award, but it was mostly given to crew members of bombers and other aircraft who had to evacuate a burning, or badly damaged aircraft, in order to survive.

Some aircrew landed safely in enemy territory and were made prisoners of war and the medal was awarded much later. It is of lapel badge size featuring a caterpillar READER'S LETTER (silkworm) descending by its silk thread.

I don't believe there was a ribbon with it; surviving aircrew usually wore it on their navy blazer, with sometimes an RAF breast pocket sewn-on badge, as well.

I am ex-RAF, but never aircrew, and I was hoping to inherit this badge as a keepsake in memory of an older friend.

Sadly, these days such memories of wartime bravery are not always recognised. It is usually only on official parades and similar ceremonies that such medals and awards are seen.

Gerry Parsons, Barry.

Vale MP's fast track to charitable success

Alun Cairns hands over his cheque.

DISTANCE-running Vale MP and Secretary of State for Wales, Alun Cairns, handed over funds raised through sponsorship of his London marathon run whilst on Barry Island last week.

Mr Cairns raised £7,586 for Breast Cancer Now and the Brain Tumour Charity, completing the race as the fastest Member of Parliament.

Mr Cairns said: "I chose to run this year's London Marathon for the Brain Tumour Charity and Breast Cancer Now because I know what great work they do through people affected by both illnesses.

"Here in Barry there are many who volunteer for both and do the vital week-in week-out fundraising that makes a difference to so many lives."

Both charities expressed gratitude to Mr Cairns for his achievement.

Mary Immaculate students clean up neglected landmark

Mary Immaculate High School pupils prepare for a day of work in the ruins of St Mary the Virgin Church.

AS part of a new Welsh Baccalaureate programme introduced this year, pupils at Mary Immaculate High School are getting stuck into the community challenge element of the course by renovating a derelict 13th-century Caerau churchyard.

A partnership project with City of Cardiff Council and Cadw has been designed to enable more than 160 year-10 pupils and four teaching staff to improve the site and enhance the surrounding area.

The ruins of St Mary the Virgin Church stand on the site of Caerau Hillfort, located between Caerau and Leckwith. The church was built in the 13th century and closed for the last time in 1973. It was declared a Grade II listed building in 1980, but has declined into a ruin.

Over the course of two days, a group of year-10 pupils from Mary Immaculate High School put together a work plan, setting out exactly what they could do to improve the location, and attended two full days at the site for some hands-on renovation that included path laying, hedge building, litter picking, pruning and planting, and grave condition recording.

The Welsh Baccalaureate co-ordinator at Mary Immaculate, Emma Dyer said: "This has been a fantastic project for our pupils to get involved with.

There has been some seriously hard work undertaken, but the site of St Mary the Virgin Church has been dramatically improved and I know that we are all feeling a huge sense of accomplishment as a result.

"Aside from the physical labour, our students have offered a huge range of skills for the benefit of the community. They have been very creative in their ideas to market the site as an area of local interest and have written an evaluation of the work undertaken and the skills they have developed."

Fifteen-year-old Chloe Smit, from Caerau, said: "I actually had a lot of fun working with my classmates. It was good seeing the place looking much tidier at the end of our two days of work.

"It was hard work and my hands were sore, but I think it's somewhere people could visit now."

TARZAN IS FUN - BUT A TAD TOO EARNEST!

by GARETH JAMIESON

Talk on Twitter -
@GEMScreenTalk

THE last time Tarzan graced the big screen (ignoring the disastrous Kellan Lutz-starring clunker in 2013) was in 1999, as the gentle tones of Phil Collins wafted over Disney's animated take on Edgar Rice Burroughs' legendary character.

Fast-forward to 2016 and the character returns to the big screen (sans the erstwhile Genesis frontman's warbling) in The Legend of Tarzan, a more serious take on the character. Tarzan himself (Alexander Skarsgard) is now John Clayton III, or Lord Greystoke, having left the jungle to make a new life in London with his wife, Jane (Margot Robbie).

However, when news emerges of a plan by Belgium's King Leopold II to extract the Congo's rich mineral deposits, led by his envoy Léon Rom (Christoph Waltz), American envoy George Washington Williams (Samuel L Jackson) convinces Clayton to return to his homeland to stop Rom's evil plan - without knowing a tribal leader, Chief Mbonga (Djimon Hounsou), is awaiting the return of Tarzan...

You can call it the 'Chris Nolan effect'. Ever since Batman Begins in 2005, filmmakers have found themselves presenting darker takes of sourced material, attempting to build their tales in a realistic world and take the character back to its roots.

It doesn't always work (you only need see last year's borefest that was Fantastic Four to realise that), so when director David Yates suggested that The Legend of Tarzan would be inspired by that first Nolan Batman film, a gulp was taken; throw into the mix that the character of Tarzan - king of the jungle, talks to animals, has a nice line in tribal calls - has hardly been begging to return to the big screen, then expectations are not overly high.

And yet, for all of the films po-faced earnestness, in all of the moments where it threatens to be too serious, there is still a solid adventure film lying beneath it, one that still reasonably entertains even if it takes pains to point out how weighty and portentous it's trying to be.

Having helmed four Harry Potter films (and with spin-off Fantastic Beasts and Where To Find Them set for release this November) David Yates has proved more than comfortable in the director's chair of big blockbusters, and he shows his nous here with a film that looks superb, its budget on the screen for all to see.

The plains of Africa and the murk of the deepest depths of the jungle are brought stunningly to life by Yates, while his handling of the film's big set-pieces is done with a quiet and assured confidence. If the tone feels a little too heavy for the subject matter and is projected a little awkwardly (the coldness of Greystoke Manor bathed in blues, Africa a vibrant, sun-kissed yellow), then Yates at least tries to inject some zip into proceedings.

Cast-wise, Alexander Skarsgard's Tarzan may be a tad too brooding but when he swings into action (pardon the pun) he makes for an engaging hero, even if he's played perhaps a little too coldly by the actor.

Opposite him, Margot Robbie makes for an engaging Jane, even if she is reduced by the machinations of the story to a damsel in distress; that said, she is afforded more depth than most damsels, and the actress does a decent job.

Samuel L Jackson's character seems designed purely to add a little levity to affairs, something he does particularly well without really stretching himself, while Christoph Waltz's villainous Rom, while a reprehensible character, is a touch too one-note and, for an actor of Waltz's capabilities, lacking in any invention.

Where the film would benefit the most would be from a different tone - there is an emotional backstory to Tarzan and Jane's relationship, while his left behind in the jungle is similarly mired in emotion.

Yet sometimes it's far too weighty and austere for its own good, and while The Legend of Tarzan has its fun moments, it's the overuse of the dramatic that slightly sours the taste.

VERDICT: Part jungle romp, part weighty, emotional drama, The Legend of Tarzan's inability to reconcile these two elements mean that while satisfying, its lacking in fun. David Yates makes the film look gorgeous and the cast do a decent job - it's just a touch too earnest, and not quite thrilling enough. Average.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: The Jungle Book (2016), Indian Book and The Temple of Doom (1984).

Amdram company Billboard Ensemble celebrates 20 years!

BILLBOARD Ensemble was formed in 1996 and is Barry's premiere amateur dramatics company.

However, writes a Billboard spokesman, there is nothing 'amateur' about this company; often staging firsts in the Vale area, Billboard has wowed local audiences for years with such hit shows as: Anything Goes, Me and My Girl, Little Shop of Horrors, The Wedding Singer, Disney's Beauty and the Beast and an annual Christmas pantomime.

Shows are staged in the Memo Arts Centre, Barry and junior productions have been staged in various local theatres including The Paget Rooms and the Wales Millennium Centre.

Billboard Ensemble is a non-profit making organisation and is run by an administration team and a production team.

Any profit from any show is ploughed back into the next production. With almost 100 members, spectacular scenery and costumes, large orchestras and an abundance of talent, a Billboard production is a feast for the senses!

In the beginning, the adult and junior sections performed summer shows together, however it very soon became clear that the juniors needed - and deserved - their own annual production.

Billboard Juniors have a loyal fan-base have wowed audiences with shows such as Honk, Bugsy Malone and Camp Rock and more recently Alice in Wonderland.

The adult section comprises a strong chorus, which forms the backbone of the company. Not afraid of a challenge, Billboard performs full-scale musicals exactly as they are musically written. No harmony goes unlearned! Every musical is accompanied by a live orchestra and all harmonies are sung live. To see and hear a Billboard show is really something special because at the heart of the company are people who genuinely love musical theatre.

Billboard has initiated the careers of numerous professional performers. Many members have gone on to successfully study at top London theatre schools including The London Academy of Performing Arts (LAPA), Arts Educational School (Arts Ed), Delamare Academy, London and the London School of Musical Theatre (LSMT).

Many of Billboard juniors are with agencies and often appear on television and professional touring productions of musicals such as Chitty Chitty Bang Bang and Oliver! Billboard is not just about performing. There is an active social scene and over the 20 years many exciting events have happened: Stars in Their Eyes nights, skittle evenings, annual Christmas balls; trips to London and Blackpool; and so many Billboard weddings! Many members stay with Billboard for years; this is testament to our friendly company.

Billboard loves a challenge, and this summer's musical is no exception, and Legally Blonde The Musical will see its region premier at the Memo Arts Centre this August.

A fabulously fun international award-winning musical based on the adored movie, Legally Blonde, The Musical follows the transformation of Elle Woods as she tackles stereotypes, snobbery, and scandal in pursuit of her dreams.

This action-packed musical explodes on the stage with memorable songs and dynamic dances. Equal parts hilarious and heart-warming, this musical is so much fun it should be illegal! Join Billboard as they celebrate their very special milestone.

Texan visitors join project

RECENTLY, a team of 17 Texans came to the Vale for a week to work alongside local churches.

For five days, three of the Texans joined over 30 local Christians from Dinas Powys Baptist Church and Bethesda Chapel in carrying out social action projects across the village.

As well as litter picking, graffiti cleaning, and gardening, the team painted the gate to the Scout park on Greenfield Avenue and the railings on the bridge leading to Dinas Powys Primary School and the library.

A free community barbeque was held for some local residents. Counc Chris Franks congratulated the volunteers, saying that the community really benefited from their actions.

He said: "This follows similar projects earlier in the year when a huge area of the common was cleared of rubbish. In addition, overhanging brambles were cleared from pavements."

Avoiding some of those summer ills – Part 2

DEEP Vein Thrombosis (DVT) happens when a blood clot forms in one of the body's deep veins. This tends to happen when a person has been inactive for a period of time, as blood collects in the lower parts of the body, particularly in the lower legs.

Every year, DVT affects one in every 1,000 people in the UK, but there are things you can do to reduce your chances of getting it. For example, when you're on a long journey, try to do leg and calf exercises every half hour or try to walk around. You can also help by wearing loose clothing from the waist down and making sure that you are drinking plenty of water to keep yourself hydrated.

Pharmacy tips: If you're worried about DVT, ask your pharmacist about compression socks.

Planning ahead: If you take a regular medicine, make sure you have enough for your holiday. If you do run out of your medicine while you're on holiday in the UK or you lose your medicine, go to a pharmacy as they may be able to sell you an emergency supply.

There are some drugs however that a pharmacist will be unable to give you. These are called controlled drugs and include medicines like benzodiazepines and morphine. If you run out of these medicines, your pharmacist can refer you to a local doctor for more advice. The best advice is plan ahead and while on holiday, keep your medicine in a safe and secure place.

Pharmacy tips: If you take a medicine for a long term condition, ask your pharmacist about the easiest way to reorder your prescription.

Over The Counter Medicines:

When you're on holiday abroad, you may notice that medicines look different to how they do back home. This is because medicines have a generic name, which is the active ingredient of the medicine, and they have a brand name, which is the trade name the manufacturer gives to the medicine. For example, Viagra is the well-known brand name given to the generic medicine sildenafil. If you cannot find your normal brand in the pharmacy while you're on holiday, don't worry; the pharmacist in the UK will be able to find you something that contains the same active ingredient.

Pharmacy tips: Try to stock up on holiday essentials like anti-sickness remedies, plasters and painkillers before you go on holiday. Be careful though; there are restrictions on taking certain medicines into another country, for example it is against the law to take medicines containing the painkiller codeine into the United Arab Emirates or Greece. Ask your pharmacist for more advice.

Be careful when packing: There are new regulations on what you're allowed to take as hand luggage so check with your flight operator before you travel to avoid any nasty surprises.

Pharmacy tips: Taking a translation of the documents will help avoid any problems on the return flight if your destination is not English-speaking (especially outside of Europe).

Travel sickness: Your pharmacist can give you advice on available remedies as well as giving tips on how to prevent travel sickness, such as ensuring there is good ventilation and encouraging children who suffer with travel sickness to look out of the window instead of playing games or reading books as this can make it worse.

Pharmacy tips: Alcohol should be avoided while taking travel sickness tablets and the tablets may interact with other medicines you may be taking, so ask your pharmacist for advice on the best product for you.

Sunburn is something that you should definitely not have to suffer with on holiday. Visit your pharmacy before you go to make sure that you have the correct sunscreen for your holiday.

It is recommended that an adult wears a sunscreen with a rating of at least SPF15 and for a child, SPF30. It will of course depend on where you're travelling to, so ask your pharmacist for advice.

You should apply sunscreen liberally before going out in the sun and make sure you reapply it every couple of hours throughout the day. Also, try to stay in the shade when the sun is at its strongest between 11am and 3pm. If you do get sunburn, cover the area immediately to prevent further damage.

by Kate Thomas, Pharmacist Proprietor, Sylvia Williams Chemist.

A cool shower can also help, as can applying after-sun cream. If your skin starts to feel itchy a few days later and you start to peel, use a moisturiser. You can of course avoid all of this by making sure you apply sunscreen and stay in the shade.

Pharmacy tips: Don't be fooled by a cloudy sky! Just because you cannot see the sun does not mean that it won't be causing damage to the skin.

Time travelling: If you take regular medicines and will be travelling across different time zones, speak to your pharmacy before you go away as you may need to alter the way you take your medicine.

For example, if you take the progesterone only pill, most only have a three-hour window before the dose is classed as being missed so you may want to continue to take your pill using UK time or gradually adjust the dose by no more than three hours at a time so it fits in with your holiday destination time.

Patients with epilepsy should be advised that if they need to adjust their dosing schedule, this should be done gradually until a convenient dosage regimen has been established. The Epilepsy Society advises that this should be done with guidance from the patient's GP.

Pharmacy tips: Travelling across time zones can also cause jet lag. You can help lessen the effects of jet lag by making sure that you're hydrated and avoiding alcohol and caffeine, which can disturb sleep.

Anti-malarials: It only takes one bite to become infected with malaria, so make sure you take malaria prevention seriously. The type of antimalarial you need will depend on a number of factors including where you are going, your medical history, your age and whether you are pregnant. Ask your pharmacist for advice.

Pharmacy tips: Unfortunately, no antimalarial tablets and travel vaccines are 100 per cent effective so it is essential to use other bite-avoidance precautions such as mosquito nets to go around your bed skin repellents and plug in vaporisers.

Know your limits: If you're going on an all inclusive holiday, try to eat and drink as sensibly as you can. Overeating can cause a whole range of symptoms including heartburn, indigestion, nausea and constipation and over-drinking can of course cause the dreaded hangover. After you have eaten, try not to lie down right after you've had something to eat and if you really have to, use a couple of pillows so you sleep in a more upright position.

Over-the-counter painkillers can help with headaches and muscle aches caused by over-drinking. Paracetamol-based remedies are usually preferable as aspirin may further irritate the stomach and increase nausea and sickness.

Pharmacy tips: The best way to avoid a hangover of course is not to drink, but if you do, drink sensibly and try to keep within the recommended limit (men 3-4 units per day and women 2-3). Try to eat lots of carbohydrates as this will help to slow down the body's absorption of alcohol. Before you sleep, drink a pint or so of water and keep a glass of water by the bed to sip if you wake during the night.

Must haves for a holiday health kit: Eye drops can help to replenish moisture after the humidity of aeroplanes, especially if you wear contact lenses. Painkillers can be used to treat back pain and headaches.

They can also be used to treat high temperatures in children. Ear drops can help to treat the symptoms of ear infections – particularly common with children using swimming pools.

Make sure you have a good supply of plasters, wound dressings and antiseptic creams for minor scrapes and falls. CONCLUDED

A day out at the races for the local WIs

ON July 14 more than 200 members of the Glamorgan Federation of Women's Institutes (GFWI) travelled to Chepstow for a day at the races.

They were, of course, dressed in their best, with hats that would have easily graced Ascot's Ladies' Day.

Before racing began, the ladies were treated to a delicious buffet lunch and a talk by a gentleman who obviously knew the 'form'. Armed with this insider knowledge and clutching their race cards, the ladies enthusiastically chose the winners of every race!

There were cheers of excitement and sometimes sighs of disappointment as the horses and their colourful jockeys raced passed the balcony specially reserved for the Glamorgan ladies.

There were eight races in all, but everyone took a special interest in the second race, which was the GFWI Handicap.

Mrs Sandra Davidson, vice chair of the federation and organiser of the event, chose the 'best turned out horse and presented the prize to the race winner.

At the end of an eventful and fun-filled day, members – whether they had won or lost on their horses – all agreed that they had thoroughly enjoyed the experience and that it had been a wonderful day.

They hoped that this would become an annual event in Glamorgan's calendar!

The Vale of Glamorgan Council VARIOUS ROADS, CARDIFF AIRPORT (VARIOUS PROHIBITIONS, RESTRICTIONS AND LIMITATIONS TO VEHICLE AND PEDESTRIAN MOVEMENTS) (ANTI-TERRORISM) (TEMPORARY) ORDER 2016

1. On the 15th July 2016 the Vale of Glamorgan Council in exercise of its powers under Sections 14(1) and 22C of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 and of all other enabling powers made an Order the general effect of which is as described in the Schedules below.

2. The Order will come into operation on the 30th July 2016 and a copy of the Order may be seen at the address shown below during normal office hours.

3. If you wish to question the validity of the Order or any provisions contained therein on the grounds that they are not within the powers conferred by the above Act or on the grounds that any requirement of the same or that any instrument made under it has not been complied with in relation to the Order, you may within six weeks from the 30th July 2016 apply to the High Court for this purpose.

Except as provided by this Order:

No person shall proceed on foot or cause or permit any vehicle or cycle to proceed, stop or wait at any time, in the location specified within the Schedule below.

SCHEDULE

Location:

All roads between the roundabout where the airport access road meets the A4226/B4265 and the junctions where the two airport access roads meet Port Road.

Footpaths (Public Rights of Way) Penmark No's 9, 9A, 10, 15, 21, together with restricted by-way Penmark No 18 throughout their lengths.

Reasons

These prohibitions, restrictions and limitations are made for the purpose of avoiding danger to persons or other traffic using the roads; avoiding, reducing, or reducing the likelihood of, danger connected with terrorism or for a purpose relating to danger or damage connected with terrorism (as defined in Section 1 of the Terrorism Act 2000).

Duration

From 18.01 hours on 30th July 2016 for a maximum period of 18 Months.

Alt Route

The diversions for south east bound traffic will be from the roundabout adjacent to the Aircraft Maintenance Facility, then in a south easterly direction along the A4226 to the roundabout at the junction with Port Road then in a south westerly direction along Port Road, to the Airport and visa-versa.

None for the footpath closures.

Dated this 21st day of July 2016

RAF ROADSHOW TOUCHES DOWN AND SCHOOL CHAMPS LINE UP WITH STARS!

The drone flight was very popular

A ball and air blower demonstrated the Coandă effect

YEAR-8 and 9 science students at Barry Comprehensive School welcomed the RAF Engineering Education Roadshow to school recently.

Among many of the activities students were shown a demonstration of a mini jet engine. A 'ball-and-air-blower' demonstrated the Coandă effect, which describes how air flows around objects.

The RAF team explained how the wings on a aircraft use this effect to generate lift, while a drone also took to the air inside the school hall, much to the delight of the audience.

As well as being exciting and entertaining, the roadshow helped students to apply their scientific knowledge in a practical way and made them aware of potential careers in science and engineering.

Barry Comp pupil becomes under-13 county champ

YEAR-7 pupil Kai Ludvigsen became the under-13 county champion in the 200m at Jenner Park recently with a very fast time of 29.4 seconds.

Barry sixth former Jake McNery ran for the Cardiff and Vale senior boys athletics team in the 200m and 4 x 100m relay in the national schools championships. He came third in the 200m and won gold with the team in the relay.

Stars coach Barry's champion team

BARRY Comprehensive School's all-conquering year-8 rugby team has been preparing for the challenges of next season at an intensive training camp.

The team, recently crowned Blues champions, was bolstered by members of the year-7 team.

Guest coaches were brought in to offer their expertise. Former international second row Greg Prosser worked the boys on lineout play and Blues first team coach and former international scrum half Paul John put the players through a vigorous and challenging decision-making session.

The real treat for the players was the session delivered by current Wales full back Rhys Patchell on back play, during which the team really showed their talent impressing Rhys with their skill levels.

Huw Bevan, head of performance at the Dragons, talked to the group about conditioning and lifestyle, giving the boys an insight into professional rugby.

Coach Mr Manley said: "This was a fantastic opportunity for the players to learn from the very best. I can't thank our guests enough for giving up their time to help the lads."

"When you think Rhys Patchell was playing against the All Blacks two weeks ago, it is amazing that he can give the time to help us. I hope all of the players enjoyed the training camp and will become better players for the experience."

LIGHT ON THEIR FEET FOR MARIE CURIE HOSPICE

MEMBERS of the Paget Rooms Tea Dance Association attended a party at the Paget Rooms on July 11 during festival week.

Cakes were enjoyed by all thanks to Tesco Express Penarth. During the afternoon, a cheque for £300 was presented to a representative from Marie Curie Hospice, Penarth, in support of its good work.

We meet every Monday from 2pm to 4.30pm and all are welcome. Contact Mrs Ferris on 02920 512353. LYNN BENNETT

Dog of the week: Bear

BEAR is Dog of the Week at Dogs Trust Bridgend.

He is a West Highland Terrier, and approximately five to seven years old.

Although shy when first meeting him, once he gets to know you he loves a fuss and cuddle.

Bear would suit a quiet home where someone is around most of the day, but would best suit a home with no other dogs; he has some medical issues, which need to be discussed at the centre, and Dogs

Trust will help financially with this.

If you are interested in him contact us on 01656 725219 or visit our website.

THE VALE OF GLAMORGAN COUNCIL (A4226 FIVE MILE LANE HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS) COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER 2016

The Highways Act 1980 and the Acquisition of Land Act 1981

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Vale of Glamorgan Council ('the Council') has made the Vale of Glamorgan (A4226 Five Mile Lane Highway Improvements) Compulsory Purchase Order 2016 ('the Order') under the Highways Act 1980 sections 239, 240, 246, 250 and 260. It is about to submit this Order to the Welsh Ministers for confirmation, and if confirmed the Order will authorise the Council to purchase compulsorily the land and new rights described below for the purpose of –

(i) the construction of new highway and other accommodation work, to become part of the A4226 and the improvement of the existing A4226 highway from land south of Blackland Farm, Bonvilston for a distance of 4800 metres in a southerly and then south easterly direction to the A4226 junction with Waycock Cross Roundabout, Port Road, Barry.

(ii) the construction of other highways to connect to the new highway mentioned above; the improvement of existing connecting highways; the stopping up of highways or areas of highway; the stopping up of private means of access to premises; the provision of new means of access to premises and other accommodation work in pursuance of the Vale of Glamorgan Council A4226 (Five Mile Lane) Classified Road Side Roads Order 2016 made under sections 14 and 125 of the Highways Act 1980.

(iii) the provision of a new section of shared cycleway / footway adjacent to the on line highway improvements works from the vicinity of the Welsh Hawking Centre to Waycock Cross Roundabout, Port Road, Barry.

(iv) the diversions of watercourses and the carrying out of other works on watercourses in connection with the construction and improvement and realignment of highways mentioned above;

(v) use by the acquiring authority in connection with such construction and improvement of highways and the execution of other works mentioned above; and

(vi) the mitigation of any adverse effects which the existence or use of the highways proposed to be constructed or improved will have on their surroundings.

A copy of the Order and of the accompanying map may be seen during normal office hours at the Council's offices at Civic Offices, Holton Road, Barry CF63 4RU and The Alps, Quarry Road, Wenvoe CF5 6AA

Any objection to the Order must be made in writing to the Welsh Minister at the Planning Inspectorate, Government Buildings, Cathays Park, Cardiff CF10 3NQ before 2 September 2016 and state the title of the Order, the grounds of objection and the objector's address and interest(s) in the land.

Hafod Housing staff's 'Wimbledon' event raised £1,256 for charities

STAFF from Vale-based housing, care and support provider Hafod raised £1,256 for their chosen charities in just nine days earlier this month.

A spokesman for the organisation explained: "Each year, staff nominate the charities they want to support and Hafod's housing team raised more than £100 for Motor Neurone Disease and Gofal with their 'Wimbledon Wednesday' event. The team tempted colleagues to donate with their tennis-themed trolley full of goodies, including fresh cream and strawberry sponge, lemon drizzle cake, lemon cup cakes, sweets and strawberries and cream, and much more.

Funds amounting to £1,034 were raised for Wales Air Ambulance by Hafod's Resources team, which organised a charity gig, featuring a Stereophonics tribute act, the Monophonics, and a raffle.

This was further boosted when a team of 15 staff raised more than £100 by completing the Cardiff Corporate 5k Challenge at Bute Park.

'Mr Sleek' loses weight, lands roles!

A DAD of four from Barry, has won theatre roles and been mistaken for actor and singer John Barrowman, since losing over 12 stone!

Now Martin Woodsford is taking on another leading role after being named Slimming World's Mr Sleek 2016, by opening a Slimming World group of his own in Barry.

At his heaviest Martin weighed more than 27st and suffered a string of health problems including diabetes, high blood pressure, asthma, sciatica and severe back pain, which left him fearing he wouldn't be around to see his children grow up.

Since dropping to 14st 2lbs and losing 12 inches from his waist, the 44-year-old has fallen back in love with musical theatre and now embracing a new role as a Slimming World consultant. Martin says his weight problems began after an abusive childhood and he fluctuated in size throughout his teens, 20s and early 30s. However, it was after his triplets were born in 2008 that he saw his weight increase dramatically.

Martin said: "They were born three months premature and suffered varying degrees of health problems. It was a very difficult time and I practically lived at the hospital, so my eating habits suffered badly."

As time went on, Martin's weight impacted on his physical and emotional health. He suffered from depression and said: "Because of all of my health issues I was a regular visitor to hospital. I was in a bad way. I was so ashamed of myself that I didn't want to leave the house, and I had no energy to do anything so I'd just sit on the sofa and eat junk food every night. It was a vicious cycle."

However, after trying Slimming World at home, he knew that the support from enrolling in a class would be the secret of his success, so he joined his local class in January 2012 and says he hasn't looked back since!

"I thought about the way the triplets had fought for their lives and I knew it was time for me to start fighting for me. I didn't want to leave any of my children without a father."

He said: "When I first joined, I was shy and embarrassed so I sat at the back and didn't speak to anyone to start with but staying in class helped me immensely – the love and support from my consultant and the family atmosphere of the group was so unlike any other I had tried before."

"The plan was easy to follow and more importantly – I was never hungry!"

Martin soon discovered that food optimising was a world away from the restrictive diets and quick-fixes he had tried before – including diet pills.

He swapped junk food dinners for healthy home-cooked meals, including his favourite homemade chicken tikka masala with boiled rice, and found he could still enjoy treats too.

Martin said: "What I love about food optimising is that it's not a diet; it's completely sustainable and nothing is off-limits."

Since joining Slimming World, Martin, who works with adults with learning difficulties and runs his own cake-making business Cake Sera Sera!, has lost 10st. His health has improved dramatically – he no longer has any diabetes symptoms and doesn't need medication for any of his previous complaints, he's got a whole new wardrobe, and he's had the confidence to take and pass his driving test.

He's also taken on a new role of becoming a Slimming World consultant to help and inspire others on their weight loss goals.

He added: "I was so chuffed to be crowned Slimming World's Mr Sleek and now I feel honoured to be able to play a small part in helping others achieve their weight loss dreams, whatever they are."

"Losing weight really is easy with Slimming World and trust me, if I can do it – absolutely anyone can."

Martin's Slimming World group officially opens at Buttrills Community Centre this Saturday at 9.30am. The Mayor of the Vale, Coun Stuart Egan, will be attending the event.

Contact Martin on 07827 445570 for further information.

Prince's Fund to come to the aid of small family farms

VULNERABLE farm businesses across the UK are to benefit from a major new scheme launched today (Thursday, July 21) by The Prince's Countryside Fund.

Supported by HRH The Prince of Wales, the charity's Patron, the 'Prince's Farm Resilience Programme' aims to provide business support and one-to-one guidance to 300 farm businesses each year across the UK, as well as giving them the tools to evaluate their viability and long-term sustainability.

Building on the success of The Prince's Dairy Initiative, which has helped strengthen the UK dairy supply chain since 2012, the £1.5 million five-year programme, developed by The Prince's Countryside Fund, launches during National Countryside Week, following research earlier this month which showed a steep decline in the number of small family farms.

Small and medium-sized family farms have experienced unprecedented strain and in 2015, the average farm income fell below £20,000 for the first time since 2007.

Their ability to survive economically is now so challenged that one in five are unable to pay their short term debts. In response, many are fighting the tide through innovation and diversifying their businesses into new areas, such as leisure and tourism.

Now, a national steering group of industry experts has joined together with a wide range of local and specialist organisations to deliver business management workshops, develop online resources and deliver 15 sustainable local networks of farm businesses to improve efficiency and increase profitability on farms.

Speaking about the launch of the programme, The Prince of Wales said: "The small farms which have been such an integral part of Britain's landscape for thousands of years are under threat."

"My Farm Resilience Programme is designed to respond to those threats by helping up to 300 hard to reach, vulnerable farm businesses. It is the most far-reaching programme ever offered by my Countryside Fund."

Claire Saunders, the director of The Prince's Countryside Fund, said: "There has never been a more important time for practical action to help farm businesses. On top of the everyday problems for farmers, new and more life-changing decisions are now required."

"Small farms add vibrancy and strength to rural communities and ensure that we have a diverse farming sector."

"By offering this programme we will provide many farmers with new skills to cope with the increasing financial, technical and human challenges they face."

"The ultimate target has to be ensuring that we retain a varied and viable farming sector and nurture an essential part of our national identity by helping farms to make the most of their business."

In a bid to respond to contemporary challenges and identify ways to increase the viability of family farming, a recent report by the fund proposed a series of 17 recommendations which include:

- Improvements to financial management, technical knowledge and market knowledge.

- A need to upskill through targeted advice and training, as well as encouraging farmers to share best practice and analyse success.

- Improve economic resilience by shortening the supply chain and increasing profits.

- Invest in succession planning and develop initiatives to attract new blood into agriculture.

Recruitment for the Farm Resilience Programme will begin in September and workshops will run between December 2016 and March 2017 in locations across Wales, England, Scotland, and Northern Ireland.

First Minister puts case for fair funding to Prime Minister

FIRST Minister of Wales, Carwyn Jones AM, welcomed new Prime Minister Theresa May to Wales on Monday and called for fair funding and a proper, lasting devolution settlement for Wales.

During the meeting, the First Minister stressed the importance of remaining focused on safeguarding the long-term future for the steel industry in Wales.

Mr Jones, who is also the AM for Bridgend, set out the importance of Wales playing a full and active role in the forthcoming EU negotiations, and called on the Prime Minister to guarantee that the current levels of funding Wales receives from the EU will remain post-Brexit.

Commenting on the first meeting between the two, the First Minister said: "Today's meeting with Prime Minister Theresa May was a constructive and positive start to our working relationship."

"It was a useful opportunity to talk openly with the Prime Minister about the full role Wales must play in the forthcoming negotiations about the UK's exit from the EU."

"I once again called for the UK Government to guarantee that the £600m of invaluable funding we currently receive from the EU will continue to flow to Wales after the UK's exit takes place."

"My immediate focus remains on securing a sustainable future for Wales' steel industry and I am encouraged by Mrs May's commitment to supporting the industry. We have agreed to continue to work together to do all we can to do ensure the Tata's UK plants remain open and Welsh jobs are secured."

Mrs May also met Welsh Conservative leader Andrew RT Davies who said she was a "fantastic champion for Wales".

Llancarfan ladies will get lesson in lavender!

THE next meeting of the Llancarfan Ladies Tuesday Club is on July 26 at 7.45pm and the speaker will be Mrs Pat Summers, the 'Lavender Lady', who will demonstrate the uses of lavender and explain some of its history.

Llancarfan Ladies Tuesday Club was founded in October 1969 as a social club for the village and to raise funds for charities.

It has done this very successfully, having raised more than £25,000 and given to over 50 local organisations, such as Air Ambulance, RNLI, Coastguards, Mencap, Holme Towers, Help For Heroes, Velindre Hospital and Barry Beavers, to name but a few.

All this has been achieved with an average membership of 15 for many years. This, unfortunately, is now down to seven.

If new members are not forthcoming, the club will have to close as it will be unable to support itself, and inviting speakers for such a small turnout is not encouraging for the Speaker.

If any ladies would like to come along to our next meeting, they will be made most welcome.

STUDENTS AND CHOIR IN A 'SUMMER SHOWCASE'

CROSSWAY Methodist Church, Barry was the venue on Friday, July 8 when students of conductor, Emma Arscott, and well-known soprano, Anne Wilkins, accompanied by Sian Davies, assisted Barry Community Choir in its 'summer showcase' concert.

The younger students, Michael Monckton, Elin Davies and Eliza performed well above their years, whilst the older students, Camille Danielson, Madison Asbury and Claudia Perry are certainly musical 'stars' and names to be looked out for in the future.

The choir performed old favourites and some new repertoire, including the delightful 'A Complete History of Western Music (abridged)', a rib-tickling and tongue-twisting piece, which ended the concert.

everyone was treated to a wealth of refreshments after the concert, courtesy of choir members. A great end to a splendid evening.

The choir is always looking for new members – call in to the church any Wednesday evening from 7.30pm or call 01446 748724/029 2053 1359 or email: info@barrycommunitychoir.com.

Please note that our last rehearsal is on July 20 – we are back on August 31. You can also follow us on Facebook or Twitter. SV

Social services' tough triathlon raises funds to fight misconceptions

Participants in the challenge in Barry.

SOCIAL services employees from the Vale Council, have teamed up with service users and friends to complete a physically challenging mini triathlon fundraiser.

The inaugural fundraising event was organised by Hên Goleg League of Friends (charity to The Vale Council's Social Services provision) and New Horizons Day Service, a service for adults with a physical disabilities.

The aim was to cover the 262km distance from Barry to London by swimming, cycling and walking/running locally. After the event, the goal had been easily surpassed and an amazing final distance of 576km was achieved.

The event catered for all abilities, with 28 out of the 46 participants having a disability and 12 wheelchair users. Over a period of two weeks, clients at New Horizons completed their cycling and walking elements in the day centre gym using specialised equipment and took part in supported swims at Barry Leisure Centre during weekly sessions.

The mini triathlon event itself consisted of a 500m swim, a 5km cycle and a 5km walk/run along Ffordd Y Mileniwm, and six Vale Council members of staff took up the challenge. There was also a group walk with 29 participants, several of whom were wheelchair competitors, clients with walking impairments, friends and supporters with learning disabilities.

Lance Carver, head of social services, commented after taking part in the event: "What an amazing achievement. I am lucky to be in the privileged position of working with staff and service users like these. The event was incredibly well organised and inclusive, and challenged misconceptions about disabilities, which is exactly what all our services should be aspiring to do".

The event was made possible with help from Barry Leisure Centre, Barry Brewers Fayre, Pinit Building & Civil Engineering, Stokes General Builders, Woodland Electricals, GRABit, Woodlands Day Centre, New Horizons and St John Cymru Wales.

The funds raised by the triathlon will go towards the purchase of an additional Thera Trainer, an Active/Passive Exerciser costing £3,700. So far, the event has raised in the region of £1,500.

Landlords receive road safety award after tackling problem

RECENTLY, Vale landlords Jennie and Digby Rees were presented with the Road Safety Wales Award 2016 in recognition of their continuing awareness of road safety in the rural village of Peterston-super-Ely.

In the early 1990s, Jennie and Digby became alarmed by the congestion surrounding St Bride's Road – the main road through the village – during the local primary school's start and finish times. As many of the school's pupils came from outside the village, the narrow roads became congested with an increasing number of parents dropping their children off for school, and they would then have to cross the busy roads to get to their lessons.

With the safety of pupils in mind, Jennie and Digby approached the head teacher and governors of Peterston-super-Ely Primary School, and offered the use of their parking facilities at the Three Horse Shoes for parents' vehicles at the beginning and end of the school day.

This arrangement soon saw the problems posed by the traffic reduced, and, in 2007, the arrangement was further improved when a school crossing patrol site was established outside the public house, providing a pedestrian crossing point. This proved to be the final link in creating a safe walking route between the pub's car park and the school, but could only be retained while permission to use the car park was sustained.

Coun Peter King, Vale Council cabinet member, and Coun Rhodri Traherne, the local ward member for Peterston-super-Ely, were on hand to show their appreciation, with Coun King saying of the award: "This has proven to be a magnanimous gesture by Jenny and Digby Rees, one that has markedly improved congestion in the area."

"It is a great privilege to have been able to award this road safety award to them, as they have contributed, not only to road safety, but to community spirit."

Three Horseshoes' road safety award.

'Trim trail' is the latest bonus from school's PTA

Trying out the new trim trail.

Primrose bids Llantwit Major Pensioners farewell

PRIMROSE Goldsworthy has finished as secretary of the Llantwit Major Pensioners' Club, and has moved to Devon.

Primrose's last evening was a buffet arranged by members and the entertainment was provided by Barry Ladies' Choir, who gave a lovely entertaining evening with a jazz element, and they finished with 'Till We Meet Again'.

Primrose was presented with gift vouchers and Lorraine Reid (chairwoman) gave a vote of thanks.

The following week was the last of Primrose's organised trips to Tyntesfield. We set off on a lovely July summer day and arrived at Tyntesfield where we were welcomed by staff, and also by the electric mobility scooter which was prebooked.

We then had a tour of the lovely Gothic house, and the walled and kitchen gardens. The area was well landscaped and there was a courtesy bus to drive between the various areas.

We arrived home at about 6.15pm and feeling very pleased with the day out. Primrose wished the club well, and hoped they would give Marilyn (her successor) continued support and hoped that the club would continue from strength to strength.

FAIRS, quizzes, sponsored events, film nights, fancy dress competitions and raffles... just some of the fundraising activities undertaken in the primary school part of Ysgol Gymraeg Bro Morgannwg in Barry to help buy playground equipment for the pupils.

Hazel Evans, chair of the Parent and Teachers Association said: "Our PTA is known as 'Cry' which means strong in Welsh and really sums up the fantastic relationship between home and school that we have at Ysgol Gymraeg Bro Morgannwg."

"The pupils had loads of fun taking part in the activities and parents have really got behind what we are trying to do, joining in with lots of social events. It's been really good having the goal of items for the playground to focus on."

"As well as the 'trim trail' climbing frame that has recently been installed, we've also raised enough to buy other things such as football goals and sporting materials. These little extras all help make playtimes and PE lessons fun for everyone and get the thumbs-up from the kids."

"The school still has a long wish list for us to turn our attention to, such as items for the other playground and IT equipment.

"I would like to thank everyone who has been involved so far – including many local businesses who made generous contributions – and encourage everyone to keep up the great work."

"If anyone is interested in contributing in any way, I'd love to hear from you and can be contacted via email: nanttalwgpta@hotmail.co.uk or we're on Twitter and Facebook".

Riding high with the South Wales Police!

ONE of the highlights of my year as High Sheriff of Mid Glamorgan was to spend a morning with the staff of the mounted section of South Wales Police and the stars of the show, the police horses.

It was wonderful to see the well-organised policing operation that so complements other police departments throughout the force.

Not only are these fine animals able to be a calming influence during public events, but they are a vital tool when officers have to cut through certain areas that police vehicles find more difficult.

This was explained by Steph, one of the instructors who gave us a tour of the stables in March. She described an incident where two of the mounted police team had been patrolling Cardiff and had been alerted to reports of a missing person in the area of woodland.

They were able to locate the body of the missing person in woods, at a location inaccessible by police vehicles.

Of course, they act as a visible deterrent on dangerous operations such as a riot, but they are also a welcome sight to many of us on sporting, public or state occasions with their kind eyes, groomed coats and gleaming tack ready to be of service whatever the task.

I was fortunate to ride Samson, one of the more senior horses, who was as strong as his name, but beautifully mannered. Exercising him in the police ménage attached to the stables at Waterton was a complete treat and a morning to remember.

Opening of the Barry big wheel comes round

SECRETARY of State for Wales Alun Cairns has described the new ferris wheel at Barry Island Pleasure Park as having the potential to become an 'icon of Barry'.

Mr Cairns made the comments while taking a preview ride on the wheel, due to open to the public this week, dubbing the attraction the 'Barry Eye' and saying that it could be a 'huge attraction' for tourism to the Island. The MP also praised funfair owner Henry Danter for his continuing investment in the Island - expected to reach £20 million over five years.

The 20-carriage wheel was due to open at the start of the summer season, but had been delayed by technical issues, which are now resolved. Following the completion of health and safety tests, which have particular importance because of the strong winds which blow into the Island, the Barry Eye will be open to all. It is the biggest ferris wheel in Wales and will offer views across Whitmore Bay and the Bristol Channel.

Said Mr Cairns: "I was really pleased to be given a preview of the Barry Eye, which will quickly become an icon of the town. It has the best views of any ferris wheel in the UK and will be a huge attraction to the Island."

"The ongoing development of the Pleasure Park, thanks to the continual investment of Henry Danter is heartening to see. He has transformed the place and I am honoured to have been given the first go on this particularly important ride."

Mr Danter said: "At long last we have succeeded in getting the Barry Eye working. It will be a very popular go-to ride which I hope will be really appreciated by visitors to the island."

BARRY ISLAND – OR BUSK!

AN overcast, but joyous, day for all participants and audiences of the 'Barry Island Busk' on Saturday (July 16) as they sang and drummed their hearts out to raise £211.41 for Watereaid.

The choirs included St Helen's Children's Choir 'Newport Mind', Porthkerry Singers, Oasis Asylum Seekers music group with expert drummer and musician Severin from The Congo, Chapter Singers of Chapter Arts Centre and Cardiff Canton Singers.

The whole day culminated in a 'Big Sing' near Marco's involving 75 singers and drummers whose spirits were not at all dampened by the oncoming rain!

Ten good reasons to visit the Vale Show!

AS excitement starts to build with the popular Vale Show set to take place on August 10 at Fonnon, here are 10 good reasons for visiting the annual rural showpiece.

1. 20,000 people visit the show each year - they must be on to something, and we have the biggest one-day agricultural show in Wales on our doorstep.

2. There is more for families to do and see at the show than ever before - extras this year include the Countryside ring, Army climbing wall and fun activities, Glamorgan Cricket interactive stand, the famous Quack Pack, and new picnic and play zone - plus a visit from Peppa Pig.

3. There's a huge range of classes for horses, sheep, cattle, poultry and dogs; you can see the prize-winning animals in the Grand Parade in the main ring at 3pm.

4. If you need an adrenaline fix, then there's the Stannage International Stunt Team in the main ring at 4pm.

5. Shop 'til you drop - the shopping mall, over 200 trade stands, and if you're looking for something different there's the fantastic craft fair!

6. If you like the dogs on show, then come and see the Rockwood animal display team perform in the main ring.

7. Have something delicious for your lunch: the award-winning Vale Farmers' Market food court. The best of local food is for sale here.

8. Take the chance to learn about farming in the Vale - visit the stand run by the Cows On Tour team and the Young Farmers. Find out where your food comes from as they tell the farming story. Back Welsh Farming.

9. You simply won't believe the giant vegetables unless you see them! Come to the horticulture marquee - we guarantee that you will be amazed.

10. Finish the day with the fast and furious hunt scurry - there are sure to be thrills and spills.

And the best news of all is that you can buy discounted tickets in advance of the show.

ON Saturday, July 16 the walking and countryside access charity, Valeways, celebrated its 20th birthday in style.

A large number of Valeways supporters, walkers, friends and volunteers attended a birthday party held at the Forest Lodge, Porthkerry country park, Barry.

In addition, and in the true spirit of the charity, four walking groups started their walks from four different places in the Vale all arriving at the lodge in time for the party.

On arrival, each group was greeted by Valeways' new honorary president, Derek Brockway. Phil Gibbins, Valeways chairman said that Valeways was delighted when Derek accepted the invitation to be president.

He added: "Not only is Derek a familiar face on our television screens, but he has embraced walking and has inspired many with his television series Weatherman Walking. His involvement and support will certainly raise the profile of Valeways and we look forward to him accompanying us on future walks."

Phil also added that it is always a good idea to have someone who might be able to pull a few strings weather-wise as well!

Derek, a 'Barry Boy', talked to all present about his love of walking throughout Wales, but particularly round his local 'patch' and was very appreciative of the work Valeways is doing to improve pathways, create interesting routes and encourage walking as a valuable exercise throughout the Vale.

Wearing his newly acquired Valeways cap, he proceeded to cut the special birthday cake.

Rottweiler get-together planned

A 'ROTTWEILER party' will be held at Cosmeston Lakes on Saturday, July 23 at 4pm.

Organisers say that it will be an opportunity to let people know what a "wonderful, misunderstood breed it is."

The event is open to other breeds, too.

YOUNGSTERS 'TODDLE' FOR BARNARDO'S CYMRU

THE Cowbridge fundraising branch of Barnardo's Cymru staged its annual 'Big Toddler' at Y Bont Faen Primary School on Friday (July 8).

The youngest children (pictured) set off at 1.30pm, while some of the older ones took part in the walk first thing in the morning.

THE ISLE OF FIRE RETURNS TO BARRY

The fire garden.

AWARD-winning Isle of Fire returns to Barry Island this weekend to transform the island into a fiery landscape, with light and sounds from Spark! a group of high-impact drummers, amazing choreography and dazzling costumes.

New to this year's fire garden is the addition of the Flaming Cauldron. This centrepiece is set to wow the crowds as it travels down the promenade throughout the evening's events.

There is no entry fee and it starts at 9pm. The Isle of Fire kicks off the Barry Island Weekenders programme – six weekends of family fun at Barry Island.

AM supports 'Workout at Work' campaign

ASSEMBLY Member for South Wales Central, David Melding, took part in the 'Workout at Work' campaign with a stroll along Penarth esplanade.

The campaign, organised by the Chartered Society of Physiotherapy, promotes physical and mental wellbeing in the work environment, by encouraging employees to develop healthier work habits so sickness absence is reduced.

Mr Melding said: "As a keen walker, I was pleased to support the campaign. We can all go for a short walk in our lunch break and it is good to get away from our desks. Despite the drizzle, I and my office staff participated and we all enjoyed getting a breath of fresh air."

He added that: "The Chartered Society of Physiotherapy has come up with a great way of showing how easy it is to make a difference to work habits, helping both the employee and the employer in the long term. It can only be a good thing if the sickness absence rate drops and it is so simple for everyone to participate in this campaign."

Beer and cider festival

THE Old Swan Inn in Llantwit Major is holding a beer and cider festival on Friday, July 22, through till the evening of Sunday, July 24.

It starts at lunchtime on Friday with the opening of the first keg. During the festival, food will be served until late with many choices available from The Old Swan's kitchen.

The festival will include a plethora of different ales and ciders from the likes of Ramsbury, Titanic and Wickwar, and Welsh brewers including VOG.

The Old Swan Inn's manager, Nathan Rees, said: "As usual, we've got a wide range of beers and ciders on tap from a vast range of different breweries, many of them local, and we're expecting a great turnout. We can't wait!"

The pub, which dates back to the 12th century, is part of the Knife & Fork Food group, which also includes The Conway in Pontcanna, The Pilot in Penarth and their latest venture, The Discovery, in Cyncoed.

RNLI rescues woman from drowning

BARRY Dock RNLI lifeboat crew have rescued a female swimmer off Jackson's Bay, Barry Island, on July 18.

The alarm was raised by her friends on the beach after she entered the water having enjoyed a few drinks together on the beach. Her friends became concerned when she was lost from sight.

The lifeboat crew was called to the scene shortly before 7pm on Monday. The coastguard helicopter was also scrambled and the lifeboat crew launched both the bigger 'all-weather' lifeboat and the smaller inshore 'boarding' boat stationed at Barry.

Within minutes, the woman was rescued from the sea and was pulled into the boarding boat.

She was transferred to the all-weather lifeboat for first aid, then brought ashore before being transferred into the care of paramedics.

Police and coastguards were also on scene.

Hugh Davies, deputy coxswain, said: "Despite the warm weather, the seas around our coast remain cold and cold water shock can kill."

"The dangers of swimming after drinking alcohol are well known so we remind everyone to respect the water this summer."

On Saturday, July 16, crew were called out to assist a 41-foot sailing yacht with a broken engine. Although the yacht was able to continue under sail to Cardiff barrage, Barry Dock RNLI lifeboat worked with Penarth RNLI lifeboat to take it safely through the lock at Cardiff Bay and onto her mooring.

Ex-lifeboat in blaze drama

BARRY Dock RNLI lifeboat was called to a boat on fire in the Bristol Channel on Thursday, July 14.

It had started on board a 45-foot ex-Watson-class lifeboat now in private use. Burnham-on-Sea inshore lifeboat was also called to help.

When the Barry lifeboat arrived, the crew of the Watson lifeboat of Burnham-on-Sea had put the fire out. A lifeboat crew member went aboard the boat, which was not drifting and without engines.

When it had been confirmed that the fire had been made safe and the crew of the fire-damaged lifeboat were safe and well, the bigger Barry boat towed the stricken vessel back to harbour.

'Talking Points': guests announced

BBC BROADCASTER Roy Noble, Only Men Aloud's founding musical director Tim Rhys-Evans and national poet of Wales, Gillian Clarke, are guests at this year's Barry Arts 'Talking Points' series, which takes place next week in Barry High Street.

Mr Noble has one of the best-known voices in Wales, having presented on Radio Wales for more than three decades and he will be speaking at 5pm on Monday, July 25.

Tim Rhys Evans is a former vocal tutor at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama and a member of the Gorsedd of Bards. He has recently made a documentary investigating attitudes and treatment of mental health issues in society and will be speaking at 5pm on Wednesday, July 27.

Barry-born poet Gillian Clarke is the national poet of Wales, a position she has held since 2008.

At 5pm on Friday, July 29, she will be reading from her award-winning collections of poetry, some of which are based on her experiences growing up in Barry – including the time a ship's cargo of oranges washed up on the shore. Gillian's poetry can be seen on the walls of Barry library and on the Waterfront.

All three 'Talking Points' events are at the Grind House, 86 High Street at 5pm and last one hour. Entry is £5, including coffee and cake. To reserve a place, contact 07982 319456.

Sea View Lads are rescuers!

THE Sea View Lads fishing machine has been in action over the past month with anglers fishing local shores and distant marks.

Local fishing has been inconsistent, but in spite of this, the lads have managed to find nice specimens including bass, hounds and eels making most of the big weights.

However, a small band ventured to the Arctic Circle in early July to see if they could find more fish. They were rewarded with plenty of specimens, including cod to 40lb for Dan Ladner and coalfish to 30lb for Steve Doble.

Poor weather conditions hampered fishing but in spite of this, cod, coalfish and halibut well in the double figures were plentiful and many anglers recorded personal bests and new species.

Biggest catch of the lot perhaps was made by the dedicated boat anglers fishing on Benjoma 2.

Fishing was interrupted by a mayday call and skipper Paul Crossman reached an upturned boat with three men clinging to the hull.

All were successfully rescued and later transferred to the RNLI lifeboat – lucky indeed since they were ill-prepared for boating in the Bristol Channel and, but for the speedy intervention of Paul and Russ, this might be appearing elsewhere in this paper.

A full report and a boat trip update will follow, more details are on our website.

SPECIAL OLYMPIANS COME TO THE FORE

SPECIAL Olympics Wales held its regional golf tournament last week at St Andrews Major Golf Club.

It was attended by golfers from all parts of Britain; the day started out with a little drizzle but brightened up in time for Jane Hutt AM to welcome all and open the tournament.

Jane has been a great support over many years and we wish to thank her for her continued support, it was also great to see the support given by St Andrews Major GC members who turn out to caddy and act as scorers for the golfers, which is much appreciated.

The tee off was by golf professional John Hasting who also coaches the golfers, based at St Andrews Major GC. We would like to also thank John for his support and coaching.

After the golf, we all sat down to a meal supplied by McGraths catering which was enjoyed by all.

The 18-hole competition was won by Warren Clark (Surrey), second place Sam Lazenbury (Barry) and third place Matthew Sims (Cardiff).

Nine-hole Division 1 was won by Matthew Prewett (Barry) then we had three golfers on the same score so on count back it was second Creg Friend (Surrey), third Mark Eveleigh (Barry) and fourth James Savory (Barry).

Nine hole Division 2 was won by Gareth Lloyd (Barry) with Elliott Lee (West Midlands) in second place and Adrian Abbott (Llantwit Major) third place.

Jeff Savory, chair of Special Olympics Wales, said that he had received many comments from the golfers and families on how welcoming and helpfully the club and its members were. We all look forward to returning next year.

Brian Lee's Blast From the Past – looking back at 1991

THE GEM's Brian Lee, who has been reporting on the Welsh hunt-racing scene for the past 50 years, takes another look at his press cuttings book for 1991.

'Rocky Prince' is cheered home' read the heading for my report that went on to say: "The biggest crowd in 21 years was treated to a 10-race programme at the Glamorgan Hunt Steeplechases at St Hilary, where the loudest cheers of the day were for Rocky Prince, an eight-year-old brown gelding which finished alone in a division of an incident-packed maiden race.

'Rocky Prince, a former inmate of Milton Bradley's Chepstow yard, is trained by Ynysybwl's David Gibbs, who owns the horse in partnership with his father-in-law Gwynne Jones.

'Rocky Prince, confidently ridden by Kevin Cousins – who celebrated his 32nd birthday yesterday, took up the running shortly after half-way and was leading the field when those trying to catch him either fell or were brought down.'

Sixteen-year-old Gwent schoolboy Guy Lewis followed his father's advice and notched up his sixth winner in just 14 rides when landing the adjacent on Channel Pastime. Told to take up the running three from home Guy, who is the leading rider in the Daily Telegraph Novice Riders Championship, did just that and went on to win by three lengths from Solar's Pride.

For the record, the opening members' race was won by Cowbridge's John Llewellyn, who had an easy win on Treble Chance. The first division of the restricted went to Good Holidays who, ridden by Bridgend's Paul Hamer, won by 20 lengths from April Rain.

Division two went to Harwall Queen and Pip Nash, and the ladies' open race was won by Creeping Jane and Debra Smith. Fourteen runners faced the starter for the men's open race and first past the post was Brown Rifle which, partnered by Philip Mathias from Tenby, won by three lengths from JustTheWayYouAre.

Closest finish of the day came in division one part one of the maiden, in which Tim Rooney, riding News Review, got home by a neck from the favourite Bartondale ridden by Paul Hamer.

Philip Mathias made it a double when winning part one of division two of the maiden aboard Country Festival and Gavin Hughes made all on Dillwyn Thomas's Daisy Miller to take part two of division two of the maiden.

ACE LLEWELLYN IN GREAT FORM

'Cowbridge farmer John Llewellyn landed a brilliant four-timer at the South Pembrokeshire Hunt point-to-point steeplechases. Llewellyn won on Harwall Queen (members), Woodlawn (maiden division one), Gold Shot (men's open), and Parkbride (restricted open).

Ruth Morgan scored her first win in the second division of the maiden on Clover Express, who finished six lengths ahead of Jack Sound. Sally Lewis took the ladies' open on Premon's Last which scored by three lengths from Fort Captain.'

TUDOR'S FIRST TREBLE

'Jonathan Tudor, of Bridgend, landed his first treble at the Talybont Hunt Point-To-Point Steeplechases with Andrea's Boy in the members' race, St Helen's Boy in the men's open and Glam Grams Best in the owners' race. Debbie Smith took the ladies' open for the third year running on Creeping Jane, the odds-on favourite, who scored by seven lengths from GW Superman. Simon Jones won the first division of the maiden on April Rain and Tim Jones the second division on Good Holidays.

'The adjacent hunts race went to Sparkling Lord which was ridden by Bridgend's Paul Hamer, which beat Tudor's mount Dewliner by ten lengths.'

If you thought conditions were bad at Ystradowen for the Glamorgan Hunt Point-To-Point earlier this year, then next time I will tell you about the time gale force winds and heavy rain forced officials to abandon a meeting after just three races.

Only two bookmakers turned up – and who could blame them – and owners and trainers decided to keep their horses in their boxes.

Six new 3G pitches

THE Vale Cabinet has given the go ahead to develop six new all-weather 3G sports pitches at the Colcot Sports Centre.

A total of £614,000 of funding has been made available to finance facilities, which include four five-a-side pitches and two seven-a-side pitches.

The development of further smaller 3G pitches, in support of the pitch development at Jenner Park by the council last year, will increase playing opportunities for clubs and schools across the Vale.

Colcot Sports Centre was chosen as the best location to create the new pitches, due to the available space and close proximity to a number of schools.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure services, said: "Following the success of the all-weather pitch at Jenner Park, I'm pleased that we are in a position to announce our commitment to invest in a further six 3G pitches to support sports development in the Vale.

"We want more people to take part in sporting activities and the development of additional 3G pitches will make it easier for people to get involved in all weather conditions."

Swim sprint meet draws competitors from across Wales

ON Saturday, July 16, the Barry Amateur Swimming Club held its Cardiff Bay Sprint Meet at the Cardiff International Pool in Cardiff Bay.

This was the 28th gala in the series which was originally set up by Brian Hardwicke as 'The GRE Sprint Meet' in the Cogan Pool, Penarth over a weekend in July. This has now become a highly regarded one-day event.

Our youngest age group competes for the 'Rowland Jones Cup' which is awarded to the nine-year-old boy or girl swimmer who gains the highest point score for the four single-stroke 50m events.

Rowland Jones was chairman of our local area for many years before his sudden death. Similarly, the 'Brian Hardwicke Cup' is awarded to the best overall 12 year-old swimmer. Brian was chairman of the Welsh ASA for several years as well as chairman of our local area for some time too.

There were many Welsh clubs competing from as far as Aberaeron and Tenby, Tredegar and Blaenafon. We were also very glad to welcome some swimmers from Penarth as they've been unable to attend this competition in recent years.

The best nine-year-old swimmer, who won the Rowland Jones Cup, was James Ardern from Tenby and District Club. He won with a top score of 40 points overall.

having won all four of his races! The Brian Hardwicke Cup was won by 12-year-old Katie Davies with a grand total of 38 points. Congratulations to both swimmers.

Following the 50m sprint races in all four competition strokes, the top 10 girls and boys in each age group are invited to swim in an individual medley race, when each first place winner earns a cash prize.

I'd like to congratulate the following Barry swimmers who did very well – Aaron Belby who came in eighth overall, and many congratulations to Thomas Pugh who won a couple of his races and was very nearly first overall in his age-group with 35 points. Congratulations also to David Youngs and Cian Ralphs who were placed.

We had more girls competing than boys and we congratulate Nia Thomas and Aimee Jefferson, who were all placed in the 11-year-old group. Lauren Whittaker was well placed in the 12 year old swimmers as were Seren Russell, and Caitlin Williams in the 13 year old competitors.

Also, Nia Fuller was placed in the 14 year age group and many congratulations to Bethan Williams, who came top of the 16-and-over age-group competitors!

We now look forward to the 29th Cardiff Bay Sprint Gala to be held on July 15 next year. SB

THE BARRY RFC LOTTERY DRAW

LAST week's lucky numbers were 13, 16, 17 and 22, which once again failed to find a winner; this week's prize will be £2,280. AJ

Ellis lands three wickets as Athletic earns another win

LAST Saturday, Barry Athletic first XI travelled to Ebbw Vale with the start delayed until 2.45pm.

They won the toss and ask Ebbw Vale to bat first on a misty gloomy afternoon.

Ebbw Vale clocked up 122 for 8 in their 30 overs with C. Wallace (19), D. Blake (19) and N. Pepper (18 not out); Shea Ellis (3 for 12) and Steve Provis (2 for 25), were the main wicket takers for Barry.

In reply Barry started like a train and had 58 on the board before they lost the wicket of David Goodway for a fine 38.

This brought Nathan Baker to the wicket and Baker (35 not out) and Gavin White (26 not out) saw Barry home to another win and 19 points.

Barry Athletic second XI entertained

Whitchurch Heath at the Athletic Ground, Barry Island, and notched up a fine score of 197 for 5 with M. Anwar (68) and the ever-reliable Lee Morgan (58 not out) starring, with A White taking 2 for 31 and R. Hopcroft 2 for 35.

In reply Whitchurch Heath were 186 all out, with G. Lucey 67 not out; M. Anwar (3 for 21) and Paul Murphy (2 for 26) were the main wicket takers as the team earned a second win for returning captain Ashley Baker.

This weekend Barry Athletic first XI entertain second place Brecon, with the second XI travelling the short distance to Dinas Powys. MR

Wins for John and Evan

VALE trainers John Flint and Evan Williams had plenty to smile about last week.

At Bath, John Flint saw his eight-year-old Bernisdale, the oldest horse to face the starter in the C&I SouthWest Limited Handicap over one mile and six furlongs, come home one-and-three-quarter lengths ahead of Lady Hare at odds of 8-1 and at Worcester's evening meeting, Evan Williams' In On The Act, a 5-1 chance, won by a neck from Sailors Warn in the Cotswold Scaffolding Handicap Hurdle.

Daniel Muscutt was aboard Bernisdale and stable jockey Paul Moloney rode In On The Act.

A tricky week for Millwood

TAKING the evening trip to Penarth for this latest round of the Munro Cup, Millwood soon found themselves facing a Penarth side not ready to show any signs of making this an easy game to win.

After the first four ends had been played, Penarth had taken a 16-8 shot lead, which soon after became a 31-17 substantial lead by the time the eighth end had been played.

If Millwood were to make any impact on the game, Penarth squashed any ideas of a comeback for at the 13th end where Millwood found themselves even further behind, trailing by 53 shots to 37.

The final ends did see Millwood snatch back a few shots, but too little to make any significant change to the outcome of the game.

A word of thanks, however, to Millwood rink 5 for their contribution, a 17-shot win, which did make the final score a bit more respectable, although Penarth ran out winners by a 17-shot margin, 50-67.

Well played, Penarth, and thanks for the welcome given to Millwood and the after-game hospitality shown. Millwood welcomed Barry Romilly for this Division 4 game with both sides hoping to win this keenly contested game.

Romilly soon settled into the game for after the fifth end, Romilly had taken a four-shot advantage to lead by 16-20.

On completion of the 10th end, the game had swung even further away from Millwood for them to be trailing by nine shots at 33-42.

Could Millwood do anything to counteract the balance the way the game was going?

On the 15th end, the answer was no, for Romilly had now opened up a massive 19 shot gap to lead by 42 shots to 61.

As much as Millwood tried, things did not look any better, for on completion of the 21st and final end, Romilly had increased their lead to run out worthy winners by a margin of 33 shots to win 57-90. BH

Bridgend DFC family fun day

SATURDAY, July 30 will see Bridgend DFC host its first 'family fun day' at Minerva Street Playing Fields, Bridgend.

The day is about raising money and awareness for our disabled and mental health football teams; the money will help with news kits and transport to tournaments.

On the day there will be a charity five-a-side football tournament, bouncy castles, stalls, refreshments and much more, so please come along and support our good cause!

For more information contact Kelly Hall on 07498 505228.

Sun and stiff breezes on captain's day

A captain's day supported for meeting recently by Sigginstone resident hosted by and society captain Southerndown Golf Geraint Davies. Club for the members of the Glamorgan Farmers' Golf Society that was extremely well many happy memories he has from his time as a member.

Also invited to the evening's presentation ceremony were other founder members that for various reasons no longer participate in the monthly competitions.

These included life member Gwyn Evans, John Lee, Arwyn John and Ross Farr together with honorary members Gino Cocco and Graham Walker.

Those competing enjoyed warm sunshine but also quite a strong breeze, which proved quite a hazard resulting in 93 balls being lost to the gorse bushes that border the majority of fairways on this cliff top course resulting in below average scores being returned.

Leading the field at the end of the day with 30 Stableford points included John Hibberd, Dan Jarvis, Coun Ray Thomas and treasurer for the day Reg Davies.

Nearest the pin on the par three holes were Brian Jones, Gareth Perkins, Geraint Davies and Dan Jarvis, who also hit the longest drive down the 18th fairway to collect the longest drive prize.

Captain Geraint correctly guessed the high number of balls that would fail to return home which resulted in £100 being collected for the British Diabetes Society.

The society's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, July 29, at Langland Bay Golf Club and will be sponsored by Maes Glas Veterinary Group.

GYMNASTS IMPRESS IN A REGIONAL COMPETITION

Kiaran, James and Gareth.

GYMNASTS from all round Wales competed at the Special Olympics Wales Regional Artistic Gymnastics Competition, which was held at the Penarth Gymnastics Club in Barry.

We started with the boys followed by the girls and both gave us a wonderful display of what can be achieved with some hard work and dedication.

Level B was won by Alysha Martin Smith and in second place Daisy Darley both from Haverfordwest GC.

Level 2 girls was won by Gemma Bowie Hallam from Pembrokeshire Special Needs GC.

Level 3 girls, with a high quality display of their work, was won by Adele Bevan with her clubmate Lydia James coming second – both of these gymnasts are from Pembrokeshire SNGC.

On to the boys/men group, and boys' level 1 was won by Leon Davies from PSNGC, second Jake Morgan Haverfordwest and third Joshua Critten PSNGC.

Division 1 men's places were taken by the gymnasts from Penarth Gymnastics Club – in first place David Melly, whose work has been improving all year, and who has now won the Welsh Gymnastics and Special Olympics Wales titles for his level followed by Dafydd Williams in second place.

Men's division 2 was won by Gareth Lloyd followed closely by James Savory and third place Kiaran Parson – these three men have been at the top of disability gymnastics for many years now and are continuously changing positions.

Jeff Savory, chair of Special Olympics Wales, stated that the work these gymnasts produce week after week is a credit to themselves, to Penarth Gymnastics Club and their disability section, overseen by Mrs Gwynedd Lingard, for the work that the dedicated volunteer coaching staff do. Special Olympics Wales would like to thank Penarth Gymnastics Club for allowing us to use their great facility – which is on Ty Verlon Estate, Barry – all judges and volunteers who helped the competition to run so smoothly. JS

David, Gwynedd and Dafydd.
